DRUG CLERK IS CALLED IN EATON INQUEST

ACTIVITY IN ARMY AND NAVY

WASHINGTON, May 16.—The Japanese situation became acute today when it came to light that both the War and Navy Departments have issued emergency orders to every ship in the navy, both on the Atlantic and the Pacific Oceans, and to every army garrison commander in the United States and the Philippines and the Hawaiian Islands. Every naval commander has been ordered to have his ships ready to respond to a call at a moment's notice. Every garrison commander has been ordered to have his troops in readiness to answer with the least possible delay the word from the War Department for concentration at given points.

These orders, sent out in code dispatches, together with further commands to rush all requisitions for arms, ammunition and clothing, added to the keen interest in the outcome of today's meeting of the Cabinet, which is reported to have been given up to a discussion of the Japanese crisis. As a result of this meeting it is expected President Wilson will this afternoon deliver to Viscount Chinda, the Japanese Ambassador, his reply to Japan's protest against the California alien land legislation.

Action Based on Treaty.

It is learned that President Wilson will inform Ambassador Chinda that the federal government is going to support California and will declare in his reply that the several States of the Union have the right under the Constitution to make domestic laws. The President's reply will also assert that the California law is based on the 1911 treaty with Japan, and will state that the contention that the Japanese are discriminated against in the law is not well taken because the State law goes no further than the federal law.

That much of the President's reply can be stated on the best authority. That the government must back up California's stand, now that Governor Johnson has told the White House he will sign the alien land bill, is regarded as the only position the United States can take in the matter diplomatically.

Another important development today was the news that this reply will be immediately forwarded to Tokio by Ambassador Chinda with the suggestion that another protest be lodged with the State Department here. This move will be made in order to gain time in which the Japanese Ministry can wrestle over the question with the disturbed Japanese people.

Ready for Action.

The emergency orders issued to army and navy commanders are taken to indicate a belief on the part of the administration that the receipt of Wilson's reply will be followed by demonstrations in Japan. For this reason both the army and navy forces are held today in readiness for quick concentration.

In the conferences which led to the sending of these orders, the President discussed the problem with the military heads for the purpose of learning just where the ships of the navy and the men of the army are located. However, it is announced that no orders for the movements of troops or ships will be given as yet. In the face of this announcement the cruiser Maryland, stripped for action, has sailed with sealed orders, leaving all her superfluous material at San Pedro. It is understood the torpedo flotilla has received the same orders and is soon to set out from San Diego.

It is taken as significant that army and navy heads conferred here for over an hour in regard to the concentration of ships and troops in a possible emergency. The conference was between Rear Admiral Bradley Fiske, aide for operations of the navy, and Major-General Leonard A. Wood, chief of staff of the army.

It is known that the most vigorous thinkers of the War College believe the first requisite in an emergency would be the gathering of the whole Atlantic fleet, if possible, in the Pacific Ocean. This theory of naval action is believed to be behind the code orders sent to the commanders of all war craft now in Atlantic waters.

LACONIA, N. H., May 16.—The Independent Ice Company of Boston lost $3,500 in a fire which totally destroyed the large barn connected with their ice houses on Lake Paugus. Coleman's Liquor Cure Is to Drink Fresh, Warm Milk

Two glasses of warm milk, fresh from the cow, taken before breakfast every morning, will cure any man of his liking for liquor.

That is the new and inexpensive "drink cure" of George W. Coleman, partner of William J. ("Big Bill") Keliher in the looting of the National City Bank of Cambridge. Coleman talked of his "cure" just before boarding the 9:20 express train at the North Station on his way back to the Greenfield jail. He has been here as a witness in the master's hearing in the bank case.

"I never was a heavy drinker," Coleman said, "but I did drink a little with Keliher and the others. The taste I had for liquor is gone. I have drowned it with fresh milk. It's the best cure ever. Take two big glasses of warm milk fresh from the cow every morning for a few months and you'll never want to taste another drop of liquor again."

GIRL WOULD-BE SUICIDE DETAINED

After an examination by doctors at the Cambridge District Court today, Pearl Ballou, twenty, of No. 116 Sylvia street, Arlington, who was rescued from the Charles River by Patrolman James Russell of Cambridge, when both nearly lost their lives, was sent to the psychopathic ward at Brookline Hospital for observation. Again she repeated her statement that she jumped into the water because "God was calling me to be his bride."

Two weeks ago two Wellesley students were arrested on a similar charge by Dr. Fenton.

PROSTRATED WHEN ASKED TO RESIGN

WASHBURN BILL ON RAILROADS PUSHED AHEAD

The Washburn Public Service Commission bill was passed to a third reading by a vote of 217 to 13 in the House of Representatives today. Only one of the dozen amendments to the bill was passed.

That one amendment, presented by Representative Corgan of Malden, requires that the regulation of all steamship companies in the State shall be under the supervision of the commission.

It adds two members to the present Railroad Commission and changes the name of that body to the "Public Service Commission."

It gives the new commission mandatory powers over all railroads, street railways, steamship companies and telephone and telegraph companies within the Commonwealth.

"Glad I'm American Girl," Says Rose Fitzgerald, Home

Miss Rose Fitzgerald, daughter of the Mayor, returned to Boston today with her father, declaring that as a result of her trip to Panama and South America she is more glad than ever that she is an American girl. She said:

The more I travel in foreign lands the more happy and proud I am that I am an American girl. The one thing which impressed me more than all else during this trip through the Central and South American countries is that nowhere in all the world are the women so sincerely respected as in America, or, more properly speaking, in the United States.

GETS YEAR FOR JEWELRY THEFTS

Albert J. Leavey of Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, was given one year in the House of Correction today by Judge Quinn in the Municipal Court on the charge of stealing jewelry valued at $25 from the room of Margaret McCarthy, No. 29 East Dedham street, South End, on May 5. He was also found guilty of entering the apartment of Elizabeth O'Connell at the same address and stealing a fur coat, gold watch and ring valued at $131. Thomas J. Shaw, who was arraigned with Leavey on the same charge, was found not guilty and discharged.

BREAK WINDOWS TO RANSACK AN ALLSTON FLAT

The queer feature of a $35 robbery at the home of Mrs. Julia Heutmann, No. 942 Cambridge street, Allston, which was reported today was the breaking of both front and rear windows to the flat.

Mrs. Heutmann returned home at 10:30 p. m. and found a parton window broken, with a stone on the floor, showing the implement used. The flat had been ransacked. Two $5 bills and $25 worth of jewelry were gone. A kitchen window was likewise broken, with a second stone on that floor. The police were puzzled why, after breaking a window to gain entrance, the burglar should have broken a second window, when he could get out by the door or the way he came in.

TRACE SALE OF ARSENIC

The Eaton poison case flashed into renewed importance today when the inquest into the death of Rear-Admiral Joseph G. Eaton was resumed at Abington with elements of mystery rivaling the original inquest session which resulted in the arrest of Mrs Jennie May Eaton as her husband's murderer on March 20.

Proceedings today, though carefully guarded, indicated that the State now seeks to establish two most important factors toward making its case.

These are:

The identity of the person or persons who bought or somehow secured the arsenic which, according to the State's analysis, caused the Admiral's death.

The place—more specifically the druggist—where this arsenic was purchased.

The very nature of some of today's witnesses added mystery to the hearing.

One witness, whose name the reporters were unable up to noon time to learn, was a prosperous appearing man of about fifty years. This "unknown" arrived at Abington on the 9:20 train from Boston. He went immediately to the court and was secluded in an ante-room, reserved for witnesses.

On Stand for an Hour.

No one, except presumably some of the State officials, knew this man. He was a stranger in Abington. He has not figured in the Eaton case before, so far as known.

His importance to the inquest, however, was shown by his being on the stand at least an hour, so far as could be calculated by the reporters.

Another witness, well known but new in this capacity, was Earle Ainslee, an intimate friend of Miss Dorothy Eaton, the younger daughter of Mrs. Eaton.

Earle Ainslee is a twenty-year old youth of the Accord section of Norwell. His home is about one and one-half miles from the Eaton place at Assiniippi.

He is the earstwhile "mysterious man" who called at the Eaton home evenings following the arrest of Mrs. Eaton and who came and went via the back lot.

Ainslee did this to avoid questioning. After the reporters, who chased and recognized him one evening, had found that it was merely a case of Miss Dorothy's friend calling on the stricken family, Ainslee was spared further annoyance by common reportorial consent.

He has been alluded to, in the friendly

REVERE ASSESSORS SURRENDER BOOKS.

Complaint will be made issued by Judge Brown, sitting in the Superior Criminal Court, the assessors of the town of Revere today surrendered two books to District Attorney Pelletier's office. The books were taken to the special Suffolk Grand Jury, which today began an investigation of the Revere tax scandal.

CLINTON MAN HELD IN $1,500 BAIL.

CLINTON, May 16.—Probable cause was found today in the case of Frank O. Tessier, arrested last night on the charge of assaulting John H. Kinsley with intent to rob, by Judge Quinn in the local police court, and he was held in $1,500 for the Grand Jury.

talk of the district, as "Dorothy's sweetheart," but that much-abused term may not necessarily apply to a mere boy-and-girl friendship.

The presence of the unknown man from "Boston way" and of Earle Alston was sufficient, alone, to cause tremendous speculation in Abington and through Plymouth County, as soon as the personnel of the new witnesses became known.

Two other witnesses, it was felt, had been summoned with direct reference to the poison end of the case.

One was Chester L. Estes, a Rockland druggist.

He is the first druggist to be called officially into the case, though scores up and down Plymouth County and even to points as far as Boston, have been questioned.

The natural query, when Estes appeared as a witness was:

"Does the State now think poison was used in Rockland?"

Another witness who, it was learned, might be of value in this new development, was M. Warren Wright, a Rockland reporter.

It seems that Rear Admiral and Mrs. Eaton were in Estes' drug store on March 3, five days prior to the Admiral's death. It is said that Mrs. Eaton made a purchase. M. Warren Wright happened to be in the store at that time.

The question was raised today whether Wright would be asked to testify whether or not he had noted any purchase in Estes' store that day.

May Tell of Threats by Eaton.

Other witnesses on hand to testify included:

James Thom of Hingham, the nursery man who was a friend of the Easton family until a disagreement occurred between him and the Admiral. This resulted, it is said, in the Admiral making threats against Thom.

Mr. and Mrs. Andrew F. Jacobs of Assinippi, neighbors and close friends of the Eatons.

All seven witnesses were new to the case, though James Thom was summoned for the previous session at Hingham. Mrs. Eaton was arrested, however, and the inquest was indefinitely adjourned before Thom was called to testify.

There was speculation whether the two daughters of the accused woman would appear. They are Mrs. Julia (Ainsworth) Keyes and Miss Dorothy Eaton. They testified at the previous inquest session, and also before the Grand Jury which returned the indictment against Mrs. Eaton.

It was reported that District Attorney Albert F. Barker of Brockton, the Eaton case prosecutor, had other witnesses "up his sleeve" for this session, and the names of the two girls were mentioned in the general discussion.

That Mr. Barker should have the inquest resumed now was taken as prima facie evidence that he has something new "up his sleeve."

Long Active on Poison Trail.

Ever since the report of Professor William F. Whitney early in March that the Admiral died of arsenical poison, the State has pursued the poison trail industriously. Up to a fortnight ago the continual report was that a real case was yet to be found. Then came the Norfolk court sessions—for which Mr. Barker is likewise District Attorney—and he was busy in that quarter.

State Officer John Scott of Braintree and Deputy Sheriff John T. Condon of Rockland, the chief detectives in the poison search, were apparently busy on other matters.

Suddenly comes the resumption of the inquest and the immediate guess by the county gossips that the nub of the new matter was "poison."

The second inquest session began—as the first one ended—in a dreary drizzle of rain.

It was held at Abington, which shares with Hingham the court sessions of Second Plymouth District Court.

Special Justice Edward B. Pratt of Hingham, who presided at the previous session, arrived at Abington at 9:30 and other officials came soon after. But the inquest did not begin until 10:30.

Witnesses Carefully Guarded.

State Officer Scott and Deputy Sheriff Condon were in the court room, ushering in the successive witnesses and otherwise doing inquest duty. It was noted, also, that they might be there as witnesses.

The seven witnesses came by trolley, train or auto and were jealously guarded in the court anteroom. It was said that the "unknown" who arrived on the Boston train was the first witness. It was known, at least, that he occupied considerable time in the morning session.

Today began the ninth week of Mrs. Eaton's incarceration in Plymouth Jail. She was taken there late in the afternoon of Thursday, March 20, following her arrest and arraignment before Justice Pratt in a special session of Hingham Court, which came as an immediate sequel to the first inquest session. Following her indictment, she has been awaiting trial.

She is devoting herself to working out data which she and her counsel believe will be of great value to the defence. She writes letters home to Assinippi and takes as much exercise as Sheriff Porter can arrange for her, as she is an active, out-of-door woman and feels the confinement.

Home Training Better Than 3 R's, Dyer Tells Mothers

Superintendent Franklin B. Dyer of the Boston schools, speaking at the National Mothers' Congress at the Copley Plaza today, declared that it is harder to be a good parent nowadays than a generation ago, and that the father is to a certain extent lost in the modern home. Superintendent Dyer said the home-training of children is more essential than the "three R's." He said:

"If the home has one standard and the school another it cannot be well for the child. Teachers are occasionally reminded that they are neglecting the essentials. The fundamental institution of mankind is not the school, nor the state, nor the church, but the home, and the fundamental purpose of the home is the training of children.

"It is harder to be a good parent today than it was a generation ago. Modern conditions are so changed that no longer can the home by automatic processes see that the child gets the training that it got fifty years ago in the fundamentals of character. The father is to a certain extent lost in the modern home. To compensate for the loss of the fathers, we must rely on the increased intelligence of the mothers."

FOUR FINED FOR VIOLATIONS OF PURE FOOD LAWS

Five milk and vinegar offenders were before Judge John Perrins, Jr., in West Roxbury District Court today, with Frederick C. Hoppock of No. 194 Lamartine street, Jamaica Plain, receiving the heaviest fine—one of $50 for removal of cream. He appealed. Another complaint of having milk below standard was filed.

Other cases were: Timothy F. O'Brien, No. 90 South street, Jamaica Plain, and Joseph Saltmacchi, No. 128 South street, having milk below standard, paid $10 fines each. Johanna J. Morrill, No. 1293 River street, Hyde Park, paid $15 fine for the same offence. John Simmons, No. 160 Ashland street, Roslindale, having adulterated cider vinegar, fined $10; paid.

The cases were prosecuted by Inspector James O. Jordan of the health department.

ORDER BOOKS PRODUCED IN REVERE PROBE

A clash between the assessors of the town of Revere and Assistant District Attorney Lavelle marked the opening today of the special Suffolk Grand Jury investigation of the Revere tax scandal.

Chairman Samuel A. Segee and Charles Bates of the Board of Assessors had been ordered to bring two of the assessors' books to the courthouse. They did not bring them.

Mr. Lavelle promptly held up the Grand Jury investigation and rushed down the corridor into the Supreme Criminal Court room, where Judge Brown was sitting. The Assistant District Attorney told the court that although ordered to bring the books before the Grand Jury, the two assessors had disobeyed.

Ordered to Produce Books.

Attorney Harry James, counsel with Judge Samuel R. Cutler, representing the two assessors, responded that the statutes stated that the book of a town shall not be removed from the town hall unless they are to be taken before the Commissioner of Public Records.

The debate between Mr. Lavelle and Mr. James was heated and lasted half an hour.

Then Judge Brown without a word issued an order requiring Assessor Bates to go to Revere at once and get the books. Failure to comply with the court's order to be considered contempt of court.

Assessors Segee and Bates stated after the hearing that they did not bring the books before the Grand Jury today upon advice of counsel.

Thirty Witnesses Called.

Thirty witnesses, including several town officials, are to be questioned by Mr. Lavelle at the Grand Jury session which reconvened after luncheon this afternoon.

The inquiry will not only be thorough, but is expected to lead to a general investigation of startling charges made today of widespread graft in the town. Disclosures which have been made to the office of District Attorney Pelletier were said to indicate that the town has been "robbed" of at least several thousand dollars.

Still further and deeper charges were made today. They are:

That a certain town official held an interest in $17,500 worth of land on which no taxes were paid in six consecutive years.

That a tax levy for executions in 1912-1913 was $10,000, when for the year preceding it was but $3,000.

That there has been grafting in connection with places which have sold liquor illegally and where gambling has taken place.

50 CARPENTERS GO ON STRIKE

FALL RIVER, May 16.—Fifty carpenters in and around Fall River struck today after waiting two weeks for the answer of the master carpenters to their demand for an increase in pay. They have been getting forty-two cents an hour and they ask for forty-six cents. It is expected that if their demands are not granted more than 500 carpenters will strike Monday.

Risks $50,000 to Aid Second Bride, Once Hub Dancer

James P. McQuaide, former treasurer of the National Conduit Company, and one of the group of Pittsburgh men who became millionaires through the formation of the United States Steel Corporation, is in New York today, from England, to defend a suit for $50,000, brought by his former wife. He will abandon his defence, if necessary, because of the sudden illness of the present Mrs. McQuaide, who, as Gertie Reynolds, Weber & Field's dancer, was well known in Boston. She is seriously ill in England, and will have to undergo an operation.

The suit of Mrs. Sarah S. McQuaide will be called in the New York Supreme Court within a few days. Mr. McQuaide will make affidavit that he was compelled to return to England on account of his wife's illness. He said:

If the former Mrs. McQuaide will consent to putting the trial off for a few weeks on that affidavit, I'll come back and defend it later. "If she will not, it will have to go by default. I wouldn't be away from Gertie when she is ill for $50,000.

The case is over a note and a stock transaction.

OPPOSE NEW FEATURES IN CUSTOMS LAW

The Boston Chamber of Commerce will oppose proposed changes in the administration of the United States customs laws and recommend that a special committee be appointed by Congress to investigate and report upon the subject before action is taken. The directors have approved the report of the foreign trade committee.

The chamber objects to an appraiser being allowed to impose a penalty of 100 per cent, if he decides that the importer has entered goods purchased abroad at a price below the market value in the foreign market. It recommends a leeway of at least 5 per cent. before a penalty is applied.

It also objects to the provision allowing others than the collector or appraiser to investigate the books of merchants engaged in importing merchandise on the ground it would be an unnecessary invasion of private business.

TWO INJURED IN I. W. W. STRIKE RIOT AT WEBSTER

WEBSTER, May 16.—John Murtha and H. A. Leech, foreman in the carding and spinning room of the North Village mill of the Slater Company, were injured today when a clash took place among the employes following the calling of a strike by representatives of the I. W. W. Murtha received a gash on the right cheek and Leech's eye was closed by a blow. The local police hurried to the scene in automobiles.

More than 500 of the employes stopped work and left the mill. They say they will not return until the company grants a wage increase of five per cent.

At noon the mill was closed down. At least 1,300 hands are affected.

Divorce Plea Tells How Arrest Bared Secret Wedding

The story of their secret marriage after a romance in the South is recalled in a libel for divorce just filed by Mrs. Adeline M. Skold against Morris A. Skold, a member of the Cambridge fire department. Their wedding, which took place June 19, 1907, was not revealed until the following year, when Mrs. Skold was arrested, charged with disturbing the peace.

Skold, who was born in Sweden, is charged with desertion, dating from March 3, 1910. Mrs. Skold declares that after the marriage in Cambridge, Skold continued to take his meals with his parents at their home, but that he spent his days off with her at No. 45 Pine street, Cambridge.

MORE BOMBS OF MILITANTS DISCOVERED

LONDON, May 17.—This was a busy day for the militant suffragette "bomb squad." A watchman in West Bourne Park discovered a suspicious looking object on a bench and upon examination it proved to be one of the now famous suffrage infernal machines. It was composed of a glass tube filled with gunpowder and shot. It had a fuse attachment, but was not lighted. Attached to the bomb was a card, upon which was written:

"Give us votes and we will give you peace."

Another bomb was discovered upon the steps of the Rotherhithe Public Library. This bomb was wrapped in a copy of the Suffragette, the official organ of the Women's Social and Political Union.

Rotherhithe, or Redriff, is a quarter of London on the Surrey side of the Thames.

Another glass cased bomb was placed in the postoffice at Wandsworth, a suburb of London. It contained a powerful grade of powder. A card bearing the suffrage colors and the inscription, "Votes for Women," was attached to it.

Members of the bomb squad did not confine their activities to London. An improvised bomb, comprised of explosives and slugs, was found in Holy Trinity Church at Hastings. It was turned over to the police by a very frightened rector. It is believed that the machine was planted by an early morning woman visitor who entered the church and after kneeling before the altar in apparent prayer for a few minutes departed.

A fifth bomb was discovered in the suburb of Putney. The usual suffragette trimmings were attached to it. Householders are becoming alarmed for fear the women will begin putting bombs in private homes.

DANIELS AGAINST RETIRING JUNIORS

WASHINGTON, May 16.—Young officers in the navy are discussing with mixed emotions the announcement by Secretary Daniels that hereafter the Navy Department would frown upon the retirement from the service of juniors in health who have a number of years of active service before them. In the past young officers retiring have done so with a rank higher than the grade they occupied. This is to be stopped.

DEFECTIVE WIRE STARTS FIRE IN OPEN STREET CAR

A defective wire attached to the motor of car No. 2,748 of Division No. 3 of the Boston Elevated Railway Company set fire to the woodwork, burned through the flooring and sent sheets of flame to the roof, as it swung late the loop in Adams square. The car was in open line in charge of motorman No. 3,059 and conductor No. 3,365, and was marked "Special." A number of North End workingmen had left the car a moment before on Devonshire street, one of whom said that the car had been "spitting fire" from the South Station to the square. Firemen from the Bulfinch street house responded to a telephone call and extinguished the fire. A crowd collected.

MALDEN JUDGE AIDS WAR ON AUTO SPEEDERS BY FINING THIRTEEN

Judge Brown in the Malden District Court today joined in the war on speeding autoists when the cases of thirteen brought before him. The judge declared that the testimony of police officers testifying against autoists was to be depended upon, and he fined the autoists a total of $125.

Judge Bruce said:

Some years ago when there were only five hundred or a thousand automobiles in the State, chauffeurs were required to be careful in avoiding carriages and bicycles.

Now, with upwards of forty thousand there are fewer carriages, but larger and more powerful automobiles. These high-powered cars lead to a tendency to more reckless driving as may be seen by the Cohasset accident last Sunday.

If any of the officers of this court attempt to bulldoze a case against an auto driver and is found out, he knows he will never appear in this court again. That's why I believe the officers are reliable in their testimony.

Thirteen Are Fined.

Those fined by Judge Bruce were Earle S. Lake, student, of No. 1128 Salem street, Melrose, fined $10 for speeding; Ernest A. McLean, student, Melrose, speeding, $10; Louis J. Davis, Winchester, speeding, $10; Michael J. Ward, Malden, speeding, $10; George E. Bruce, Dorchester, speeding, $10; Roland H. Cummings, Malden, speeding, $10; George N. Staples, Nashua, N. H., speeding, $10; Fred J. Adams, Dorchester, speeding, $10; Royal Walton, Saugus, speeding on motor cycle, $5; Alfred H. Gibson, Dunstable, chauffeur, speeding, $10; Robert G. Burnett, Malden, driving on excluded parkway, $10; Ira O. Hubbard, Malden, driving on excluded parkway, $10.

The case against Elsen A. Mitchell, a Lynn manufacturer, for speeding, went over to May 23.

District Attorney Barker of Plymouth County is conducting an investigation of the smash-up at Cohasset last Sunday resulting from a road race. He will hold an inquest next week.

William Ammington Smith, husband of Mrs. Beulah R. Smith, who was killed, and Francis W. Holmes of Brookline and Paul Meglon of the two latter are able to leave the hospital, are expected to be among the first heard at the inquest.

At Des Brisay Hospital today Moulton was reported as having passed the best night since the accident. "He has regained consciousness," was the report given out. "He is gaining every day. His case is hopeful."

The Highway Commission is today continuing its investigation of the case of Miss Irene T. Fogg, the Wellesley College sophomore who was run down by the automobile of William H. Chipman in front of the college gate.

Operate on Victim.

In a last effort to save Miss Fogg's life, Dr. F. E. Porter operated upon her before the courts was Miss Anne Nelson of No. 372 Marlboro street, Back Bay. She is a member of the Vincent Club and County Clubs. She pleaded guilty before Judge Murray in Boston Municipal Court to overspeeding, to operating a car without a certificate and to operating without a license. She was fined $5 for overspeeding. The other two complaints were filed. Twelve other auto offenders were in court with her.

AUTOISTS FINED IN CAMBRIDGE COURT

Two automobilists were fined for violating the laws of the Commonwealth by Judge Almy in East Cambridge Court today. For failing to have his certificate of registration and driver's license with him, George O. Doryne of the Copley Plaza Hotel was fined $10. Charles E. Schall of Claverly Hall, on the Harvard "Gold Coast," was fined $20 for driving an automobile without procuring a license from the State.

HELD FOR TRYING TO SELL ARMY SECRET

MR. WHIZZLER

A few scenes in the life of a speedmaniac.

Whizzler, owner of the celebrated racing car, Thunderbolt III., talked today to a reporter.

"I cannot understand," Mr. Whizzler said, "all this agitation against what the newspapers are pleased to call 'speed maniacs.'

"It particularly gives me a pain to find automobile owners, and even automobile dealers, joining in the cry.

"Much is made of the fact that 145 people were killed in Massachusetts last year by automobiles. What of it? The population was 3,366,416.

"This public clamor will die down, after a while, and the automobile owners who have joined the rabble in it will be ashamed of themselves."

Mr. Whizzler has several timely suggestions to make to the Legislature.

"The time is surely coming," he says, "when pedestrians will be compelled to keep off the highways. Of course, the sidewalks will be left to them, but at every corner the cities and towns should erect stairways and bridges. This will absolutely do away with motor 'accidents' in the street.

"Tunnels should be constructed for automobilists who complain against what they call speed maniacs—but who are merely red-blooded men—and these subways could be used by grocers, milkmen and other tradespeople.

"If our critics are really sincere in their clamor, here is the ideal way out. I offer the suggestion to city governments and Boards of Selectmen free of cost. It's a whale of an idea, though, and by rights I should be compensated.

"Only last night I ran into a duffer of a slow-coach automobilist, who ought not to have been abroad after dark. Bob and I met a couple of gels at the Seawest Cafe and went out Worcester way in an old-fashioned tavern.

"Frank Zipp was out there with a party. Zipp had his Royal Bengal Six, and after a few bottles of wine the gang egged him on to show me a race.

"I let him get a start, and I should have beaten him into town by a mile or two if I hadn't run into old Mr. Curmudgeon, taking the evening air with Mrs. Curmudgeon and the girls, in a new touring car.

"We were all tossed into the road. Some of the ladies were rather mussed up. Dot D'Lenay, who was out three or four seasons ago with the 'Merry Merry Maids,' has a broken arm. Old Curmudgeon has two. He threatens to sue me for damages. I should worry.

"These family parties ought not to be out on the highway at night, and that's all there is to that. Let women drivers and family parties take the highways in the daytime. At night let us folks have a show who like the night and who like to travel when we are travelling.

"The AMERICAN makes me tired, but I am more disgusted with people who own automobiles, but who raise their voices in the cry against the speed maniac."

William Jefferson Wedded to Blonde and Pretty Ingenue

NEW YORK, May 16.—It has become known on Broadway that little Miss Vivian Martin, one of the blondest ingenues seen in New York in years, was married to William Jefferson, a son of the late Joseph Jefferson, on Sunday. They are at present staying at the Hotel Astoria.

Mr. Jefferson and Miss Martin had been "keepin' company" for some time before their marriage. Joseph Jefferson, a brother of the bridegroom, said at Proctor's Fifth Avenue Theatre, where he is playing this week, that he had heard his brother was "going with" Miss Martin, but he'd be blamed if he had heard of the wedding.

Miss Martin is barely out of her teens. She is a native of Grand Rapids, Mich. She has been on the stage since she was ten years old.

William Jefferson was formerly the husband of Miss Christie MacDonald, now appearing as the star of "Sweethearts" in Boston.

COURT DECISION MAY FREE HYDE

NEW YORK, May 16.—The action of the Appelative Division of the Supreme Court in reversing the decision of the lower court in which Charles H. Hyde, former city chamberlain, was convicted of bribery charges undoubtedly will give Hyde his freedom. Hyde was convicted of a bribery charge and sentenced to not less than two and not more than three and one-half years in the penitentiary. The lower court held that the charge that Hyde forced Joseph G. Robin, head of the Northern Bank to loan $150,000 to officers of the Carnegie Trust Company, constituted bribery.

SPRINGFIELD BUSINESS MAN KILLED BY AUTO

SPRINGFIELD, May 16.—Melville D. Hooker, forty-eight, a former commercial traveler and insurance agent, was run over and killed last night on Main street, opposite Congress street, by an automobile owned by Charles D. Reed of No. 93 Bowdoin street.

Hooker, according to witnesses, was attempting to cross the street. He was avoiding an approaching trolley car when the auto knocked him down.

Raymond F. Caldwell, the chauffeur, says Hooker was walking in the street near the curbing. He said he expected Hooker would pass between him and the curb. Hooker, however, turned abruptly, he says, and passed directly in front of the machine.

Caldwell says he applied the emergency brake to stop the machine which was going at a speed of seven miles an hour, but he could not prevent the accident.

Mr. Reed, owner of the machine, was allowed to go by the police.

BOARD REVOKES AUTO LICENSE OF DR. E. A. KNOWLES

The Highway Commission has revoked the automobile license of Dr. Edward A. Knowles of Revere, who pleaded guilty before Judge Merritt in Roxbury to driving his machine while intoxicated. Dr. Knowles can no longer operate his auto in Massachusetts.

This was one of the cases called quickly to the attention of the Highway Commission by the AMERICAN in its campaign against reckless driving and intoxicated drivers.

The Highway Commission receives records of court cases where automobiles are concerned from the clerks of courts. While most of the courts make prompt returns, others take their time. In the meantime the reckless autoist still roams the highway unless the commissioners learn from the newspapers of his doings. Even more delay is shown by police chiefs of some cities and towns.

MISS ANNIE NELSON, Vincent Club girl, who was fined for overspeeding auto.

AUTOIST WHO WAS INTOXICATED GETS MONTH IN JAIL

Ray M. Duck of No. 142 Hemenway street, Back Bay, was sentenced to one month in the House of Correction by Judge Palmer in the Roxbury District Court for operating an automobile while under the influence of liquor.

Duck nearly ran down Patrolman Daniel Lynch of the Back Bay Police Station and a woman pedestrian, whom Lynch was escorting across Massachusetts avenue, Wednesday night. His car did graze Lynch's leg.

Duck is thirty-three years old and married. He appealed from the sentence and was held in $200 for the Superior Court.

'DRIVER BLAMELESS,' SAYS QUINCY JUDGE

Judge Avery of Quincy has decided that Richard Williams, chauffeur, was not criminally liable for the death of Willard B. Nightingale, who was killed on March 27 by being struck by the automobile of Chief A. L. Litchfield of the Fire Department.

The advance style superiority my GEORGES Model Clothes invariably show when compared with readymades demonstrates how constantly I keep my finger upon the pulse of the authentic fashion ideas created by Fifth Avenue's most famous Custom Tailors who design and fashion them.

The present vogue furnishes a good example. While others are trying to meet the demand with very limited showings, my stocks, through foresight and initiative, embrace assortments that leave absolutely nothing to be desired in Pin, Pencil and Chalk stripes and club checks in Blues, Blacks and Grays of every imaginable character, with especially generous selections at such popular prices as

$12.50 $15 $18

While my Assortments embrace models of every description, the tendency of the smartest dressers seems to be toward my new Americanized English Sack Suit, with coat somewhat narrower and shorter, soft rolling lapels, high vest and shapely trousers. Next in point of favor come my various Norfolk styles. I can, however, assure every man absolute certainty of satisfaction, no matter how extreme or conservative his ideas may be.

THE HAPPIEST MOTHER OF THEM ALL TELLS OF OBJECTS OF CONGRESS

By ANGELA MORGAN.

The happiest mother at the Congress—this is the title that seems to have been won by Mrs. Milton P. Higgins of Worcester, president of the Massachusetts Branch, National Congress of Mothers, which resumed its session today at the Copley-Plaza Hotel.

Among the throng of charming women who make this seventeenth annual session of the organization the most brilliant ever yet assembled, Mrs. Higgins stands as a striking personality, full of energy and magnetism.

And yet, strangely enough, personality is just the thing Mrs. Higgins wishes to keep in the background. She doesn't want the writer to say anything about herself, but all the good things that are written must be about the work of the mothers.

"Service, not leadership, is the thing we wish to emphasize," declares this radiant and enthusiastic worker.

Mrs. Higgins, so she declares, is happy for several reasons:

First, because she feels that at last the way has been found to make possible the "better race" which for so many centuries has been preached.

In her own words, this happiest of all the happy mothers at the Mothers' Congress told me just what the work is all about, what the aims of the mothers are and what is actually being done by this remarkable association, founded in 1897 by Mrs. Phoebe Hearst and Mrs. T. W. Birney.

"Must Train Parents."

Not in cut and dried terms, but in live, thrilling, human language, Mrs. Higgins explained what it is really all about.

"It means," she said, "that at last the world has waked up to the fact that parents must be trained for parenthood, just as doctors are trained to be doctors, mechanics to be mechanics, artists to be artists, and so on down the list.

"For centuries we have talked about the 'better race to come.' Now, instead of talking, we are doing. Rather, we are talking and doing, too. The Mothers' Congress and Parent-Teachers' Association is a big national body that reaches out its arms in every direction and takes in all parents everywhere, of every religion, nationality and condition.

"Just what is it we do? Well, the schoolhouse is our vantage ground. The schoolhouse is the only place where mothers and fathers of every grade and nationality can meet on a common footing. We get the parents of the school children to meet at the schoolhouses and organize as members of the association.

"This doesn't mean mere cut and dried, technical proceedings. It means that when the mothers gather in these circles of theirs, they cooperate with the teachers and the children in everything that concerns the child.

"Here at this center, the parent comes to be helped, the teacher comes to co-operate, and the child comes too. Everything that can possibly affect the welfare of the child is discussed. The parents are called upon to plan entertainments and debates, and are thus made to develop their resources of brain and hand. The parents are made to help the teacher and in doing so, are themselves trained and helped.

Should Form Classes.

"But this is only a small part of the work. Here, to these centers, come the best teachers, musicians, entertainers, domestic science trainers, and experts in every branch of education, to personally direct and instruct the parents.

"The humblest mother may, by joining the organization, put herself in connection with the highest and most scientific training given today. How do we manage to do this?

"I wish you would say, that one of the things we contend most strongly is, that CLASSES FOR THE TRAINING OF PARENTS SHOULD BE ESTABLISHED IN EVERY CHURCH AND SUNDAY SCHOOL.

"At the International Congress of Eugenics held in London last Summer, I heard this question discussed by scientists in every language. And do you know, the terror of each one seemed to be race deterioration. That was the theme of the scientists who spoke. Just as Rome decayed, they told us, so would the modern race go down, unless a new force worked powerfully enough to regenerate humankind."

Mothers Favor $4 Gowns for Girl Graduates

Simple graduation gowns for high school girls, not to cost more than $4 each, were advocated today at the National Mothers' Congress at the Copley-Plaza Hotel. Mrs. Frederick Dick of Colorado said graduation dresses should cost more than $4. Mrs. H. W. Ierell of California said the gowns should be made at a less figure and that California high school misses wear dresses which cost only $2 when they graduate.

"There are certain simple reforms in such all mothers ought to interest themselves," said Mrs. Dick. "The fact is, is frequently the girls want to make the best showing they can when they graduate.

This leads to the making of expensive gowns, which are unnecessary. Is girls should all be taught simplicity a dress as in everything else. Thats ould be particularly true when they graduate. A simpler taste in dress will ake them more attractive to their iends."

Mrs. D. F. Ellbrecht of Rochester, N. Y., urged that there be a matron in every high school to look after the welfare of the girls. She said this would correct some of the evils in high schools. She also urged open air schools in connection with high school work.

Mrs. E. R. Weeks of Kansas City, Mo., declared that mothers can work better for their own children if they show interest in the children outside their own homes. Mrs. Charles Vrooton of Iowa presided.

MME. RAPPOLD GETS A DIVORCE FROM PHYSICIAN

NEW YORK, May 16.—Dr. Julius C. Rappold, Jr., admitted yesterday in his home, No. 150 Fleming avenue, Williamsburg, that he had received private information from Denver, Col., that his wife, Mme. Marie Rappold of the Metropolitan Opera Company, had obtained a divorce. The decree was granted Wednesday, he was informed.

All Dr. Rappold would say was:

"We are glad that the publicity is over for good."

The singer had no grounds to divorce the doctor in this State, so she went to Denver last year and established a home in a town nearby. Dr. Rappold, it is said, made no effort to get the custody of their daughter.

"MAKE NO $2 DIVORCES," DR. PRINGLE SAYS

"Make no two-dollar divorces, but make marriages easier."

This is the answer that Rev. Dr. Henry N. Pringle, assistant superintendent of the International Reform Bureau, Washington, D. C., who is on his annual visit to Boston, gives to Mrs. Harry S. Huston, director of the Parent Teacher Federation of Los Angeles, who recently said that divorces should be granted for $2 with the same freedom that people get married for $2 to $5.

Urges Easier Divorces.

Mrs. Huston also believes that divorces should be granted without much legal dispute and behind closed doors. The ceremony of breaking up marriages should be as simple as making them. People get married on the sly and they should be allowed to be divorced on the sly, she maintains. Dr. Pringle says:

I do not believe this woman actually knows what she is talking about.

Why, if divorces were allowed upon the ground Mrs. Huston outlines; that they be granted for the sum of $2 without much legal dispute and behind closed doors, there would be no end of marital difficulties springing up all the time. Married life is to safeguard the home life. We want to preserve the home life of our American people.

Would Increase Divorces.

If married people are to make so much out of a little quarrel and then get divorced upon the least provocation, and receive the divorce for $2, there would be few homes. Now it takes people some time to understand each other in the married life. They may have differences, but differences should not lead to divorces. Mutual concessions should be made.

If you are going to allow people to get a divorce upon the least pretence of a difference without much law, there will be people who will take advantage of this.

Make marriages easier. Make the married life the ideal life. Give the married men the preference in business and professional occupations.

To Improve Homes.

If we do everything to improve the homes and the children in the home life, there will be few divorces. There should be a signed agreement before the marriage of what is to be expected of the husband and what is to be expected of the wife.

Too many people get married, and they have no idea of their duty to each other. They soon become angry with each other over trifles, and then magnify them, until they take them to the divorce court. I would not do anything to make divorces easier, but I would tighten the law around it.

Throat Epidemic Threatens Boston

Large Number of Cases in Nearby Towns — Some Means of Prevention

The recent outbreak of a serious epidemic of throat trouble in nearby towns is causing considerable alarm. The trouble takes the form of tonsilitis or quinsy sore throat, which is an inflammation of the tonsils and upper breathing tract.

The soothing, healing elements of which Father John's Medicine is made, give excellent results in such cases. Father John's Medicine heals the inflamed surfaces and builds new strength to resist the germs of the disease. It is pure and wholesome.

Parents are warned not to give their children any of the so-called cough syrups and other preparations containing dangerous nerve-deadening drugs, upon which they depend for their apparent effect.

Remember that Father John's Medicine is a safe medicine because it does not contain alcohol or any of these dangerous drugs in any form.

Have Color in Your Cheeks —Be Better Looking— Try Olive Tablets

If your skin is yellow—complexion pallid—tongue coated—appetite poor—a bad taste in your mouth—a lazy, no-good feeling—you should take Olive Tablets.

Dr. Edwards' Olive Tablets—a substitute for calomel—were prepared by Dr. Edwards after 17 years of study with his patients.

These Olive Tablets oil the bowels—yet have no oily taste. They are a vegetable compound mixed with olive oil.

If you want a clear, pink skin, bright eyes, no pimples, a feeling of buoyancy like childhood days, you must get at the cause. Olive Tablets act on the liver and bowels like calomel—yet have no dangerous after-effects. They start the bile and overcome constipation. That's why millions of boxes are sold annually at 10c and 25c per box.

Take one or two nightly and note the pleasing results.

CASSIDY CHARGES AID FOR CANTON BY STATE BOARD WAS DELAYED

By HARRY P. CASSIDY.

Representative Lewis R. Sullivan's order for an investigation of the Canton epidemic attracted a great deal of attention at the State House today. The Committee on Rules is considering the order. Here it is:

"Ordered, that the Committee on Public Health be authorized to give hearings, to summon witnesses, and to administer oaths for the purpose of determining whether the State Board of Health or the Canton Board of Health, or both, were negligent in the case of the tonsilitis epidemic in Canton, which resulted in sixteen deaths."

The general legislative sentiment seemed to be that such an investigation was desirable. Some believed that blame lay with the State Board—others argued that the local board should have checked the epidemic more promptly. It was pointed out that the Committee on Public Health has already reported favorably a bill for the reorganization of the State Board, and that therefore this committee evidently does believe the State Board has not fulfilled its duty.

Recent developments have pointed strongly toward the necessity for a reorganization of the board. The charges against the board include the following:

1—That the Board has not properly enforced the food laws.

2—That the Board in its appointment of State Inspectors of Health has been swayed by politics of an undesirable sort.

3—That at least two inspectors, Dr. Voss of Lynn and Dr. Overlock of Worcester have been dropped, when as a matter of fact both were able and efficient inspectors.

4—That in the Canton epidemic the State Board failed in two things which it should have done. It failed to take prompt measures to check the epidemic and save the lives of the sixteen who died. It failed to study the epidemic so as to be able to strike at the root of the evil if a similar outbreak should occur in another town.

Agrees with Charges.

I personally agree with every one of these charges. I believe the State Board should be reorganized—that the members should be paid salaries—that their powers should be increased—that the health appropriation should be increased—and that the members of the board should be required to give their personal attention to the work of the board.

I believe that many members of the board will agree with me on this. Dr. Milton J. Rosenau, recently appointed, in the course of a talk I had with him, supported these ideas, though we did not discuss the question of reorganizing the board. He favored, for instance, a larger appropriation, and increased powers for the board.... Dr. Rosenau is the most eminent—though the newest—member of the board today.

I wish to quote in part the statement coming from the office of the board on May 10 in regard to the Canton epidemic. The statement was not signed, but came from Dr. Hanson, the assistant secretary, acting under Dr. Richardson's direction.

The statement reads in part:

"Because of the failure of the Canton Board of Health to comply with the directions of the State Inspector of Health in his effort to prevent the further spread of tonsilitis in that town, the State Board of Health today took the unprecedented action of assuming direct control of the situation. . . .

"So far as can be learned, the State Board of Health has never before invoked the authority given it by Section 8, Chapter 75 of the Revised Laws, which reads as follows:

"If . . . any disease dangerous to the public health exists . . . in any place within the commonwealth, the State Board SHALL MAKE AN INVESTIGATION thereof, and of the means of preventing the spread of the disease, and shall consult thereon with the local authorities. . . ."

I wish to point out here a significant fact—showing that the State Board did not fulfil its duties.

The statute quoted says:

Tells of Delays.

"THE STATE BOARD SHALL MAKE AN INVESTIGATION."

As a matter of fact, the State Board did not make the adequate investigation—did not take any effective steps to check the disease for ten days after an appeal came from the Canton Board. The Canton Board on April 30 asked for help, saying the epidemic was taxing the efforts of every physician in the town. The State Board gave that help—ten days later—on May 10. Meanwhile sixteen died.

The statement from the State Board quotes a letter they sent to the dairy in Canton which is blamed for the epidemic. This letter was sent by registered mail—and DID NOT REACH THE MILK MAN TILL MAY 13. Meanwhile, the epidemic was taking its toll. I believe the State Board should have taken some swifter form of communication. The registered letter is the slowest means of communication in use in America today—except walking. Telephone, telegraph, special delivery mail—or even an ordinary jetter—would have been swifter.

The statement adds that the Canton situation was reported to them on April 30, and that Dr. Walcott, the State Inspector of Health, was instructed to make a report—which he did on the following day. THIS REPORT THREW LIGHT ON A POSSIBLE CAUSE OF THE EPIDEMIC, BUT DID NOTHING TO CHECK IT. The State Board should have acted at once to check the epidemic, upon receipt of this report.

Inspector Walcott gave certain directions to the Canton Board, as to the treatment of milk in the infected dairy. The statement from the State Board says:

"The State Board has been informed that absolutely nothing has been done by the local board in the way of carrying out the directions of the State Inspector."

Tells of Lives Lost.

The Canton Board says these instructions were carried out immediately.

On the State Board's own showing I believe they are proved negligent. The situation is this:

April 30, they were notified that an epidemic of tonsilitis had seized the town, that every doctor was working night and day, and they were asked for help.

They sent an inspector, who made a formal report to the board, and who made recommendations as to treating the milk supposed to be infected. THE STATE INSPECTOR DID NOT FORBID THE SALE OF THIS MILK.

The State Board also asked the Canton doctors—straining every nerve to attend to the hundreds of sick—to take cultures and send them to the State Board for study.

They gave no effective aid till May 10—when the State authorities took charge, with the result that the epidemic was checked in two days.

HAD THEY DONE THIS TEN DAYS BEFORE A DOZEN LIVES MIGHT HAVE BEEN SAVED. THEY DID NOT DO IT, AND THOSE LIVES WERE LOST.

CITIZENS HAIL CASSIDY FIGHT FOR PURE FOOD

A resolution thanking Harry P. Cassidy, the Boston AMERICAN'S pure food expert, for championing pure food laws, was unanimously adopted last night at a mass meeting of Jamaica Plain and West Roxbury citizens, in Cleveland Hall, Washington street, Forest Hills. Chairman Patrick J. Brady of the Ward 23 Democratic Committee presided.

The resolution was presented by Thomas P. Lally, secretary of the Cleveland Club, under whose auspices the meeting was held. The resolution, which was passed following an hour's talk by Mr. Cassidy on the subject of "Pure Food."

JOHNSON BILL WILL MAKE ICE CREAM PURER

The bill of Food Inspector Joseph Johnson of Cambridge now being considered by a special House and Senate conference, providing for purer ice cream, means, he says, that "frozen bacteriological soup" will no longer be sold in Massachusetts if the measure is adopted.

Inspector Johnson says the present form of ice cream manufacture is one of the greatest menaces to public health. He declares that the public is being actively poisoned by aniline dyes, rotten seed oil and skim milk, thereby not getting its money's worth.

Inspector Johnson says the dangers from the use of these ice cream cones is great. In one Cambridge factory Mr. Johnson aided in the condemning of 15,000 of these cones. "These cones," he said, "were made out of water from a trough where horse were drinking and which might have been filled with glanders germs."

OPPOSE INCREASE IN FERRY TOLLS

The Chamber of Commerce opposes any increase in the tolls of the East Boston ferries, believing that, "While the ferry service shows an annual deficit, it is no way different as a practical matter from the showing of the cost of maintenance of bridges, it being merely a cost for service rendered to citizens, and as such is met by taxation."

"Tom's All Right," Declares Foss on Attack by Riley

When Governor Foss was asked today what he thought of the attack made on him yesterday by Judge Thomas P. Riley, chairman of the Democratic State Committee, he smiled and replied:

"Tom's all right. He gets excited once in a while, and at such times is liable to say some ridiculous things, but he's a good boy. I understand he said that I have hurt the party machine. If he meant that I have hurt the party organization, my answer is that the organization, as far as results show, at least, hasn't suffered a great deal since I joined the party."

The Governor was seated at his desk examining some State documents when the reporter entered. He was shown the statement, which said, among other things:

"The Democratic party has been unfortunate in having a Governor who has done everything that a human being could do to show that there is no necessity of a party organization. He has not exalt fairly with the party organization."

After reading the clipping, the Governor said, in a whisper, "I guess we can stand it, old boy. ou's all right."

WORCESTER, May 16.—When Judge Rafiaga in the Divorce Court tried in effect a reconciliation between Susie Sherwood, who was seeking a divorce, and her husband, John H. Our Fortieth Annual Hat Sale represents in the beginning more hats than in any previous year. We have the latest imported English Sennits, either wide or narrow band, according to your taste, because one is just as stylish as the other, at $1.35.

If you see the same hat elsewhere for less than $2.50, we will be greatly surprised. The same with the American Split Braid, the finest hats made in the world, at $1.35, and if you can see any difference between these and the same hats marked $3.00 elsewhere, we will be still more surprised, except the name on the inside, for which you pay nearly three times the intrinsic value of the hat. But when it comes to real Summer Hats, give us the old Mackinaw, the only hat ever made that really represents a summer, hot weather hat. These are real MEN'S hats, and the best looking hat a large man with full face ever wore. It weighs about one-third as much as the heavy imported hat.

The old rolled brim, slightly slanting crown Mackinaw.

We have these made to order every winter during the dull months.

The wide brim, low crown and possibly more "stylish" hat may be all right for young men.

We have more than six hundred cases of hats unopened today, while our open stock we believe to be greater than that of any three or four stores in New England.

If we cannot supply you with a hat this season, it will be your fault and not ours.

Yours truly,
RAYMOND

BACKACHE IS A DANGER SIGNAL

Kidney Troubles, Bladder Disorders, Rheumatism and Serious Diseases Follow.

There are other symptoms such as pains in the region of the kidneys, nervousness, dizziness, tired and nervous feeling, weak bladder, or urinary troubles, which are just as dangerous, for the slightest kidney derangement, if neglected, may develop into the deadly Bright's disease, dropsy, or diabetes.

It is not only dangerous, but needless, for you to suffer and endure the tortures of these troubles, for the new discovery, Croxone, promptly ends all such misery.

There is no more effective remedy known for kidney, bladder trouble and rheumatism than this new scientific preparation, because it removes the cause. It works right into the kidneys, through the walls and linings, cleans out the clogged up pores, neutralizes and dissolves the poisonous uric acid and waste matter that lodge in the joints and muscles and cause those terrible rheumatic pains, and makes the kidneys filter the poison from the blood and drives it out of the system.

Three doses of Croxone a day for a few days is often all that is ever needed to relieve the worst backache or overcome disagreeable urinary disorders, and you can take it with the utmost confidence that nothing on earth will so quickly reach the worst case of kidney, bladder trouble, or rheumatism.

You will find Croxone different from all other remedies. It is so prepared that it is practically impossible to take it into the human system without results. An original package costs but a trifle, and all druggists are authorized to return the purchase price if Croxone should fail in a single case.

HOPE TO GET BACK LOOTED BANK MONEY

Receiver John L. Bates of the defunct National City Bank of Cambridge, if responsibility for the looting of the bank is placed upon the directors, hopes, it was learned today, to pay depositors ninety cents on the dollar. It may be that the depositors will receive dollar for dollar.

The stockholders already have turned over to the receiver their original stock covered by United States bonds and an assessment to the amount of the stock. The receiver with these sums and what little of cash was left in the bank, has realized for depositors already 65 per cent. of their deposits. Upon the outcome of the suit which he is conducting before Master Harris will depend whether depositors will receive 90 per sent. or the full amount of their deposits.

The stockholders will lose every cent of their investment and as much more besides.

Besides losing as stockholders, the directors, in case the contention of Receiver Bates is upheld, will be held civilly liable for the loss of $117,000 which George W. Coleman says somebody else took.

Because the $117,000 is missing, with nobody to tell where it went, and because it disappeared before Coleman began his steadings, the receiver believes that the directors should properly be held financially liable.

Further criminal prosecutions are hinted at as a climax to the suit now being prosecuted by Receiver Bates. The receiver, however, is confined in his duties to recovering for the depositors every dollar he can from the rock.

The line of investigation, however, if it should lead to the door of other wrongdoers at the Cambridge bank in addition to Coleman, would quickly reach the office of the district attorney.

When the hearings are resumed in June not only will President Edwin Dresser testify before the master, but Frank L. Earl and Directors George W. Gale, Sumner Dresser and David Dresser and David Harber as well.

It is these directors whom Master Harris is courteous to in heeding their request for secret hearings.

The June hearings may be in the open, with the directors having nothing to say in the method of procedure.

Capture Harvard Theft Suspect, Who Fights With Razor

Patrolman Thomas Tevlin of the special Harvard College police arrested a supposed sneak thief early today after a desperate fight in the college yard. Tevlin pitted his boxing skill and bare hands against a razor wielded by his opponent, who resisted arrest with all his power. The suspect was not overcome until Patrolman Lendrigan of the Cambridge police came to the assistance of his brother officer.

The prisoner, who is thought to have been the perpetrator of scores of thefts which have occurred on the exclusive "Gold Coast" and in Harvard dormitories during the past few weeks, gave the name of Frank Sanborn, but refused to give any street or city address.

He has gone, however, was found a diary, which the police are now examining. In the diary the name, age and address given are "Tony R. Gere, twenty-three years. No. 16 Lee street, Cambridge."

In the District Court the man pleaded "not guilty" to larceny and was held in $500 for a hearing Wednesday. He was photographed and had his finger prints taken at police headquarters while awaiting bail.

A sealed verdict of $154,216.89 for Frank Edwards, a Summer street wool broker, against Francis Willey and others, wool merchants of Bradford, England, was opened before Judge Fessenden in Suffolk Superior Civil Court today.

Here Are the Facts:

We are opening one of the finest clothes shops in the United States in the new Kesner Building, at Cor. State and Quincy Streets, Chicago. We made up an enormous stock in anticipation of opening this store on March 1st. The season is too far advanced for this store to dispose of such a large quantity of merchandise, so we have sent $35,000 worth of it to our local store, which we are disposing of now at the following pronounced sacrifices on regular prices:

MAYOR SAYS HE'S READY TO RUN AGAIN

Will Stand for Re-election if the Public Appears to Demand Him.

Mayor Fitzgerald, back from his South American trip today, announced he would become a candidate for re-election if conditions warranted his entering the contest. He said:

I have not changed my mind. The answer is the same. If the situation arises and the conditions warrant my entering the contest, I will submit to the demands of the voters.

It is an open question my friends say whether I can be of even greater service to the people by remaining in the office of Mayor of Boston and there working 365 days in the year as I have in the past for the accomplishment of all these great purposes, so essential to the welfare and prosperity of the city and its people, or by organizing some tremendously big exporting business to develop the port of Boston. However, I shall await the demands of the people and the situation.

Mayor is Tanned.

The Mayor was tanned to a deep bronze and as he expressed it "never felt younger in his life."

The Mayor was brimful of suggestions for making Boston "bigger, better and busier." Here are some of the plans he has for the development of Boston:

To develop the boys of the upgrowing generation to become exporters to South America and bring to Boston the major portion of the $2,000,000,000 worth of trade these countries enjoy.

To teach the boys Spanish and other South American languages and send them there as commercial travelers to sell our goods to them.

To get the boys interested in shipping Boston products in Boston bottoms and developing a Boston owned fleet for South American business.

To sell such great quantities of Boston products to South American countries as to realize in the immediate future the dream of a bigger, better, busier Boston.

To make Boston such a busy place that there will no longer be a doubt about which city is the metropolis of the world.

To develop Boston's waterfront, worth millions of dollars, the harbor and bay, so that they will have no superiors in the world.

To Buy Waterfront.

To organize a big company of wealthy men and buy up all the available waterfront and other accessible lands and then build and finance if not operate big manufacturing plants where all manner of commodities may be turned out in tremendous quantities for the export trade.

To increase by proper and wise business methods several times over the $2,000,000,000 worth of trade South American countries enjoy and secure the major portion of it for Boston.

The new business life, the expert business, the Mayor said, has already begun by the members of the trade party who have already established agencies in South America to introduce and sell Boston made goods. The Mayor says:

The South Americans were intensely pleased that Boston, a great American city, has sent some of its foremost citizens to pay them a friendly visit and were extremely cordial in their receptions.

Merchants Enthusiastic.

The American consuls were all enthusiastic over our visit and declared it was the first time that the people of the United States ever showed any real interest in South American trade.

The merchants in the various cities visited said with emphasis that "Boston will not lose anything by this visit."

The Mayor's first official act was to confer with Street Commissioner Gallivan and Secretary John O'Callaghan on the spending of the $300,000 appropriation for new streets to be laid out and constructed.

The Mayor told Superintendent of Public Buildings Fish that the arrangements for the laying of the new City Hall annex corner stone must be completed within two weeks.

Later today the Mayor held a conference on the final selection of the new Ward 19 playground, planned on the Mission Church site, and discussed the matter of the $500,000 loan for new streets.

MAYOR WANTS BOYS TO LOOK TO SOUTH AMERICA

I want our Boston boys of the upgrowing generation to become exporters to South America and to bring to Boston the major portion of the two billion dollars worth of trade of that continent. I want to see our boys taught Spanish and other South American languages. They should be sent to South America to sell our goods to the South American republics.—Mayor Fitzgerald in interview today.

Would Build Fleet to Carry on Trade Between Boston and South American Ports.

TAKE BOSTON FOR INFANT STUDY

The American Association for the Study and Prevention of Infant Mortality will hold its 1914 convention in Boston according to a notification received by the Mayor's office today. The executive board of the association which has just completed its sessions at Washington voted to hold the convention here in preference to Minneapolis. An official invitation had been extended by the Mayor some months ago.

Lord Howard's Daughter Thrice Balks at Altar

Where is the man who has the power and [illegible] to stem the torrent of a woman's [illegible] [illegible] she may depend [illegible] [illegible].

LONDON, May 16.—Hon. Frances Fitzalan-Howard, a beautiful girl of twenty-one, has been rusticated by her father, Lord Howard of Glossop. The young lady seems to have made up her mind she will not marry Albert Leigh Bennett, a persistent suitor whom nothing can discourage and whom her father desires as a son-in-law.

Three times the fickle girl has accepted Mr. Bennett, three times all preparations for the wedding have been made, three times the invitations have been sent out, three times the variable girl turning with the zephyr of coquetry has said: "I will not marry him."

So her father, a kinsman of the Duke of Norfolk, England's premier Duke, has sent her from his town house, No. 14 Rutland Gate, to his seat, Glossop Hall, Derbyshire. There she will have time and solitude to reflect that young Bennett's persistency at least deserves to be rewarded. Of him his friends speak most highly.

LONDON, May 16.—Fifty bustling American youngsters, members of the Columbia Park Boys of San Francisco, Cal., who arrived here last night, set out today to "do" London. N. SALLINGER Is The Only Man in Boston Selling Standard Brands OF Men's Clothing ON CREDIT

N. SALLINGER,

Originator of the Famous Order Check which enables men and women to obtain Credit at their favorite stores for the Cash Bargain Prices, and PAY $1.00 A WEEK.

I REALIZED that a man who found it necessary to ask for credit was a man who appreciated a good thing when he saw it just as well as the man who could pay cash. I also realized that the man who needed credit was the man who ought to get a first class Standard Brand of Clothing—something that would wear well and always look well.

Under the old style credit system the man who bought clothing on credit was the most abused mortal on earth. The doors of the Best clothing houses were closed to him, and he was forced to buy inferior clothes of unknown makes at outrageously high prices from the ordinary credit houses. Now all is changed. He can make his selection from the best brands of high-grade clothing, Standard Brands with a national reputation and buy them through the Peoples Credit Co. on credit for just the same cash price that the cashclothing houses charge.

PIMPLES MADE FACE LOOK BADLY

On Forehead and Chin. Festered and Came to Head. Looked Like Boils. Painful at Times, Cuticura Soap and Ointment Cured.

Geneva Downs Bethel, Conn. "I had been troubled with a few pimples of long standing. [illegible] on the forehead. [illegible] and they spread all over my face and neck. They were very red, and caused me much annoyance. At times I was almost insane and afraid of myself. The pimples festered and came to a head. Some were so large that they almost looked like boils. They would smart and were painful at times, so when I went bed them they would become sore and when healed would leave a scar. What hair my caused me to keep awake.

"I tried different remedies for the skin, such as [illegible] Soap and [illegible] Soap, also different kinds of ointments, as and [illegible] without relief. I had almost given myself to believe that nothing would help when I saw the advertisement of Cuticura Soap and Ointment and sent for a sample. In two weeks' time I saw an improvement. I bought a cake of Cuticura Soap and a box of Cuticura Ointment and in five months had accomplete cure with a fair skin that anyone would be proud of." (Signed) Miss Gertrude Harris, Oct. 22, 1912.

SOTHERN SHOWS A NEW SHYLOCK TO HUB CRITICS

In the Merchant of Venice they get married and live happily ever after—and with Marlowe as Portia and Sothern as Shylock, what more is to be desired?

They appeared in the accustomed roles [illegible] Shubert Theatre last evening [illegible] audience which [illegible] filled [illegible] theatre, remained to wage attention from [illegible] curtain until [illegible] and did no [illegible].

No matter how often we may see them in these roles it seems they remain just as fascinating as ever—even [illegible] the [illegible] of [illegible].

[illegible] And with [illegible] Marlowe [illegible] scene last evening was more or less familiar with the lines. Yet when does one tire of Shakespeare.

Sothern's Shylock was a new presentation to the average follower of Shakespearean drama. He portrays the Jew as a poor pitiable old man, harrassed, driven to the wall and with death as the only desired release from his troubles, which the Christians heaped upon him. His terror and rage at the [illegible] of things in life most dear to man were very real. His make-up and expressing being particularly impressive. Sothern as interpreted by Sothern, but really leaves the court, robbed, turned by his own people, a wandering and he represents not a hated money lender, but a representative of a helpless race, old, defenceless and carrying the sympathy of the audience, rather a new interpretation.

Such a winsome girlish Portia was Miss Marlowe, eager to have the lover of her choice, and as playful as the maiden of today in her eagerness for her [illegible]. Her Portia was a delightful piece of art and charmed more by her abyness and [illegible] than by her strength. So artful was it that it seemed just natural, as if she were portraying her own feelings.

John O'Brien as the Prince of Arragon, was a most amusing person with his swagger and self concentration, and his deliberation in taking a try at fortune, quite [illegible] he might at choosing a new [illegible] for his adornment.

Miss Helen Singer as Nerissa, had a delightful role and her interactions made her a very pleasant companion to the fair Portia. Millicent McLaughlin, as Jessica, satisfactorily filled a difficult role.

Tonight Romeo and Juliet is to be presented.

The Wonderful Jeffery Service to Owners

THE Jeffery Company considers that every Cross Country owner is a stockholder in the service organization. His dividends are paid in the increased satisfaction he enjoys through the service such an organization provides.

A stock of duplicate parts, amounting in value to one-half million dollars, is maintained by us at the factory and branches, while all distributing dealers also maintain stocks.

WE have all the original patterns, dies, jigs and tools for every part of every Rambler car ever made. This stock is carried that we may assure to owners quick delivery of parts even of old models.

The price of Jeffery parts is one-half to two-thirds lower than that of parts for other cars.

THE Jeffery service organization not only includes an efficient department at the factory, but it is supplemented by a corps of experts on the road and by nearly five hundred branches and distributing dealers. The branches maintain a complete stock of parts, while the larger distributing dealers have all those for which there would ordinarily be any demand.

The clock faces show the time it would ordinarily require for the owner to get a part after his order reaches one of our distributing points.

A beautiful four-color reproduction of the Cross Country, from an oil painting by R. Philip Brainard, is ready for mailing. See the Cross Country by all means, at any Jeffery branch or dealer's display room, but send for the picture anyway.

Cambridge-Oxford Unable to Compete Here in Big Meet

The Harvard track management has received a cable from the managers of the Cambridge-Oxford teams that it will be impossible to hold an international track meet on June 19. This date is not acceptable to the English athletes, because Cambridge and Oxford do not close until nearly two weeks later.

On the other hand, June 19 is the day set for the Harvard commencement, and the track games would be a fitting climax to the Harvard and Yale athletic week, as the Crimson and Blue have their annual contests on the diamond and on the river commencement week.

It has been suggested that the games be held in July, but many of the college athletes here will have gone to the seashore or country or become "stale" by that time.

Attention, Amateurs GET THE AMERICAN

ATTENTION, managers, captains and members of SCHOOL, SEMI PROFESSIONAL and AMATEUR baseball teams.

THE AMERICAN, daily and Sunday, during the season of 1913, will be the official organ of school and amateur baseball.

This department will be one of the big features of THE AMERICAN and will be maintained under the immediate direction of the sporting editor.

OFFICIAL SCORE CARDS will be furnished free to all those requesting them. Return them with complete accounts of your games, which THE AMERICAN will GLADLY PUBLISH.

All accounts of meetings, organizations of teams and challenges will be PRINTED AS SOON AS RECEIVED. THE AMERICAN will make the School and Amateur Baseball Department an UP-TO-THE-MINUTE ONE.

It is estimated that there are at least 5,000 SCHOOL AND AMATEUR BASEBALL teams in Greater Boston. We want notes, results of games and any other information from the captains and managers of these teams that will prove of interest to local coming champions.

The AMERICAN has made special arrangements to help the future greats with their Saturday games. An expert on baseball will receive the boys in the front office of the AMERICAN each Saturday night. He will furnish pencil, paper and score blanks. Two other young men will help him in gathering and assisting in filling out the scores. And the SCORES WILL ALL BE PRINTED IN THE SUNDAY AMERICAN—with FULL AND COMPLETE stories of the game.

Baseball blanks will be printed EVERY SATURDAY in the AMERICAN. Cut them out. Fill them in. Bring them to the AMERICAN Office.

Sidelights on Sports

By A. H. C. MITCHELL

FOR the love fo Mike, why should they hoot and jeer Bill Sweeney because he didn't make a couple of impossible plays? The best player that ever wore spiked shoes couldn't have made the plays on those two ground balls that [illegible] high. Those misguided individuals who jeered Captain Bill displayed a very low order of intelligence, for one thing. After that is said there is little else to be said. Perhaps they had bet two bits on the home team.

A COMBINATION of Walter Johnson, Ed Walsh, Christie Mathewson, Joe Wood and Nap Rucker, couldn't have stopped the Reds yesterday. It was one of those days when a team is out to bat everything and everybody. Nothing could have stopped them. The hits they made were all be-whiskered. Let us hope they have done about all the hitting they will do this series.

THE Reds are far from being a bad ball club. Everybody around the National League circuit says so. They deserve a better position in the race than they now occupy. They have had hard luck and they have taken the small end of many a close game.

CINCINNATI is carrying twenty-four players on the trip. Catcher Reynolds has just been released to Louisville and left last night to join the Colonels. Beecher, the star base-runner of the National League, is with the team but has not played for several days, as he is suffering from rheumatism. Egan is laid up with "grip."

THE Reds made only two runs on five straight hits in the third inning, after one was out. All of the hits were beautiful line drives, too. But Tinker was caught at second, trying to steal, and later another man was caught trying to sneak over to third from first on a single to right. Two innings later the visitors did better by scoring two runs on only one safe hit.

CONNOLLY made a dumb play in the eighth when he threw to third when Becker was almost on the bag. The throw went wild, let in an extra run and placed Tinker on third on a base hit, with two out, whence he scored later.

PAUL STRAND, who finished in the box for the home team, was only put in to give him the sensation of facing big league batters, after the game was hopelessly lost. He had pitched all morning in batting practice and also pitched to the batters in the afternoon practice before the game. He was pretty well pitched out when he went in against the Reds in the seventh.

NOT much fun writing about that last game, and it is a good guess the fans don't care much about reading about it, either.

BOLD SUSPENDED BY EVERETT FACULTY

[illegible] Bold, the Everett school's fire-[illegible] has been suspended from the baseball team on account of the alleged use of language unbecoming a gentleman to Coach Leo O'Donnell in the course of the Everett-Boston Latin game on Wednesday. Principal Wilbur J. Rockwood, who enacts gentlemanly conduct on the athletic field on the part of the boys that represent this school, suspended Bold indefinitely, being fully aware of the possibility that his action may seriously affect Everett's great chance to win not only the Suburban League pennant but the State title as well.

BULL IS WINNER.

WASHINGTON, May 16.—C. M. Bull, Jr., of New York, won the title in men's singles in the sixth annual open tennis tournament of the Cherry Chase Club, defeating C. B. Doyle of Washington in the challenge round in a four set match, 6-4, 3-7, 6-2 and 7-5.

Eddie Murphy Gets Draw In His Bout With Earl Fisher

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 16.—Eddie Murphy, the Boston lightweight, met a surprise here in his 10-round bout with Earl Fisher of Cincinnati, which went the limit and was declared a draw by Referee Harry Davidson. Fisher is a freak, but he is a whirlwind when it comes to speed, and Murphy was puzzled frequently by his antics.

While Murphy landed the more effective blows from start to finish, only in the third round did he have a decided advantage. Both resorted to slugging in this frame, and Fisher was on Queer street at the finish, but he rallied and showed good during the remainder of the mill.

Murphy tried hard for a knockout in the last two rounds, but Fisher would rush to a clinch and save himself. In the final round he had Murphy hitting at space.

Murphy dropped Fisher to his knees in the first, and in the eighth Fisher sent Murphy against the ropes with a left hook to the jaw. Neither lad was damaged.

FELTON IS WINNER.

Felton defeated Ammidon, 50 to 49, in the three-cushion billiard tournament at the Imperial.

Base-Crick Game to Be Played by Sargent Girls

At the athletic demonstration of the Sargent School girls at the Boston Arena tomorrow evening the game of base-crick will be seen in Boston for the first time. This is a new game invented by Charles C. Malton of Everett, who describes the game as a healthy, exciting pastime and one that promises to excel any of the present sports.

The game Saturday will be played between two teams of girls from the Sargent School. Although the game is played between two teams an individual is the winner. The game is a cross between baseball and cricket. The wickets are set out in a diamond similar to baseball and the batter runs after making a hit to the first base. If reached safely it counts one run. The ball is then pitched or bowled to the batter at the wicket. The ball must be caught or thrown to the wicket keeper for an out.

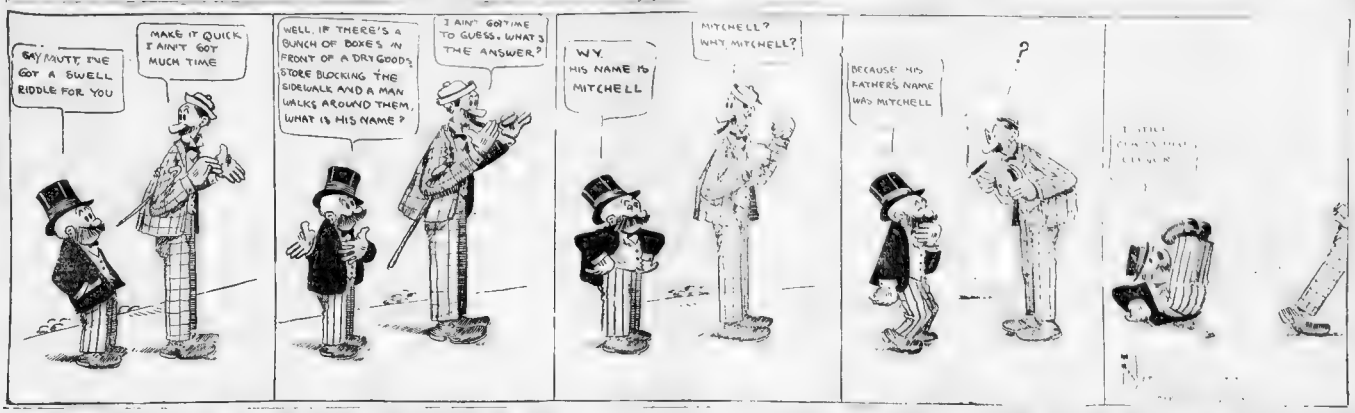
Who Laughs Last Laughs Best, but He Who Laughs First Is Sure of His ☙ By "Bud" Fisher



JUDGE MAY LET JOHNSON FIGHT

CHICAGO, May 16.—If Federal Judge Carpenter, in whose court Jack Johnson negro pugilist, was convicted of violating the white slave law, will consent Johnson and Luther McCarty, white heavyweight champion of the world, will meet. Arrangements for the match were agreed to by Billy McCarney, manager of McCarty, and Johnson today.

Johnson said that his statement of a few days ago that he was "broke" was absolutely true. He said he needed money now worse than he had ever needed it.

When asked if he would meet Luther McCarty, Johnson showed his gold teeth and said he would be glad of the chance to share the gate receipts of a championship battle.

"The only thing that stands in the way, said Johnson, "is the consent of Judge Carpenter."

McCarney wired Johnson today that he would match McCarty against him when Johnson received permission of the court to fight.

CONLEY LOST TO BOSTON COLLEGE

Soton Hall defeated Boston College, 7 to 1, at Fenway Park yesterday, in a game in which Peploski, the crack Seton Hall pitcher was at his best, and Woods and Mallorga, who pitched for Boston College were ineffective. L. Conley in the seventh, in attempting to steal second, broke his ankle. The injury will keep him out of the game for the rest of the season.

BALL PLAYER KILLED.

POTTSVILLE, Pa., May 16.—Clarence H. Irvin, a star baseball pitcher of this vicinity, who was signed by Manager Connie Mack of the Philadelphia American League club and who was to report for duty May 23, was instantly killed here by crippling and falling in front of a Philadelphia & Reading railroad locomotive near Cressson, Pa.

ST. LOUIS, May 16.—The Red Sox were a frisky bunch of ball players when they met the St. Louis Browns in the second game of their series today. Yesterday's 15 to 4 defeat has put new life into the world's champions and they have hopes of winning the entire series. "Dutch" Leonard or Ray Collins will probably pitch for the champions today, while Lee Criger will undoubtedly have three or four pitchers warm up.

Deprived of his customary catcher, "Grindy" Joe Wood does not appear to demon he does with Cady or Carrigan working behind the bat. In the opening game of the series here, Wood did not look any too good. He was shy on control. He passed seven Brownies and got crossed up with Catcher Nunamaker so the latter was charged with a passed ball.

TRAVIS' CARD BEST IN OAKLAND PLAY

BAYSIDE, N. Y., May 16.—With a card of 77, Walter J. Travis of Garden City won the medal in the qualifying round of the tournament at the Oakland Golf Club. This was two strokes better than H. R. Lee of Yale and three better than the effort of Jerome D. Travers of Upper Montclair, the national champion.

GIBBONS HAS HARD BATTLE WITH M'CARRON

By JACK CONWAY.

MIKE GIBBONS who defeated Gus Christie in a decisive manner at the Atlas A. A. a. most Jack McCarron the St. Paul beauty in a ten round bout in Mechanics Square Garden, New York, tonight. As St. Paul wonder has been made a favorite and should become a winner if he performs as well against McCarron as he did when he fought Christie.

Boston fight "fans" believe that Gibbons will be returned the winner. Mike is a remarkable boxer and we do not know of a man of his weight who is his equal in skill.

If Gibbons weighs a few pounds more I would be a strong candidate for the middleweight championship. As it is he is able to vanquish almost all of the 158-pounders with ease.

TERRY BROOKS of Brooklyn and "Young Jasper of the North End will exchange punches in a ten-twelve round bout in Lowell tonight. Jasper has been winning his bouts with great regularity lately and a hot scrap is promised. Brooks, who is a sweet puncher, but who is not very clever.

Barney Sutter the national 108 pound amateur champion will make his debut as a professional in the semi-final bout of eight rounds against Pinny Brooks of Lowell.

"JOHNNIE" McDONOUGH, the gritty little Manchester, N. H. boxer, has decided to quit the ring. McDonough made his announcement after fighting a draw with Joe Dugan in Manchester, N. H. McDonough is not satisfied to box and if he does close his padded gloves again he is liable to re-instate injured. Two physicians have advised him to stop boxing.

THE BALDWIN-GALLANT bout, which takes place at the Atlas A. A. on next Tuesday evening has aroused a tremendous amount of interest as it has caused. Hundreds of boxer supporters. Matty and Gallant are both big boys and each has a big following. About every person in Charlestown is boasting Matty will win all so easy, while the adherents of the sox are pinning to win on Gallant. Fans to decide the resulting piece of the Charlestown carnival.

TERRY GOORRE of Lawrence will meet Eddie Reagan of Quincy in one of the all-round best bouts in Brighton tonight. Reagan is well known to those fans who attended the bouts at the old Armory A. A.

[illegible]

PART I.

T[illegible] ... [illegible]

"[illegible]," he said softly, yet with a strength of conviction, "you married me [illegible] love me."

The wife shuddered, but she strove to [illegible]

"No," she said gravely, "no, I did not!"

"And you love me now!" he went on [illegible]

[illegible] Mary's denial came like a [illegible]

[illegible]

"Your're Going to Love Me"

[illegible] ... something bigger—I'm going to make you love me."

Burke, with his rousing voice, spoke again:

[illegible] ... and then turned her [illegible]

"And if I [illegible] make me one? You can't [illegible] and have her [illegible]"

[illegible] herself around in a more [illegible]

"She didn't get her time for good behavior."

Mary raised her head haughtily, with a gesture of high disdain.

Proud of It

"And I'm proud of it!" came her instant retort. "Do you know what goes [illegible]

[illegible] ... Do you [illegible] ... I want to get [illegible] ... to pay! [illegible] ... away my [illegible] ... Now I've [illegible] and I've got [illegible]

Told Gilders, both father and son, endured much suffering [illegible] the night and day that followed the [illegible] Mary Turner's apartment when she [illegible] made known the [illegible] of her revenge on the older man by her ensnaring of the younger. Dick had followed the others out of her presence at her command, emphasized by her leaving him alone when he would have pleaded further with her. [illegible] ... she had refused [illegible]. He was denied admission to the apartment. Only the maid answered the ringing of [illegible] ... Distraught [illegible] ... suffering [illegible] ... what mettle of man lay beneath his debonair appearance. [illegible] ... In these hours of grief [illegible] ... Never for an instant he [illegible] was guilty of the crime with which she had been originally charged and for which she had served a sentence in prison. [illegible] ... poisoned her nature through the years, but [illegible] scheme of which he was the innocent [illegible] ... devoted herself to [illegible] devices for making money, to [illegible] schemes for legal plunder. In his summing of her, he set no more than [illegible] ... the desperate struggle she had made after [illegible] ... [illegible] He knew the intelligence of this woman whom he loved, and [illegible] ... the kindliness [illegible] ... Swayed as he was by the loveliness of her, he was more enthralled by those inner qualities of which the outer beauty was [illegible] a fitting symbol.

Dick Remains Loyal

So, in the face of this catastrophe where a less love must [illegible] destroyed utterly, Dick [illegible] His passionate regard did not falter for a moment. It never even occurred to him that he might cast her off, might yield to his father's prayers, and abandon her. On the contrary, his only purpose was to gain her for himself, to [illegible] ... her against every ill, to protect [illegible] love from every attack of [illegible] ... He would not believe that the girl did not care for him. Whatever [illegible] been her first purpose of using him as an instrument through which to [illegible] against his father, whatever might be [illegible] purpose of eliminating him from [illegible] ... still was sure [illegible] ... to know a real and [illegible] for himself. He [illegible] from the [illegible] ... and the [illegible] ... rare instincts, and these [illegible] ... might as yet be but faintly [illegible]

[illegible] at first he drew an immediate [illegible] ... misery. [illegible] anguish was a racking [illegible] He grew wider visibly in the night [illegible] ... The boy had in [illegible] ... was a proud man [illegible] ... Most fathers would have stormed [illegible] ... Edward Gilder did [illegible] ... his heart [illegible] ... He loved his son [illegible] making more [illegible] estrangement between [illegible] ... that the matter [illegible] safely [illegible] in the hands of Dick himself. He realized that his [illegible] ... His keen eyes had perceived Mary Turner's graces of form, [illegible] loveliness of face.

A Subtle Sympathy

He had [illegible], too, in some measure at least, the fineness of her mental fibre and the capacities of her heart. Deep within him, denied any [illegible] he knew there lurked a curious, [illegible] sympathy for the girl in her scheme of revenge against himself. Her [illegible] striving toward the object of [illegible] was something he could [illegible] the like thing in differ[illegible] had been back of his own [illegible]. He would not let the idea rise to the surface of consciousness. [illegible] refused to believe that Mary Turner had suffered at his hand [illegible] He would think of her as nothing else than a vile creature, who had caught his son in the toils of her [illegible] for the purpose of [illegible] making money out of the intrigue.

Gilder, in his library this night, was pacing restlessly to and fro, eagerly listening for the sound of his son's return to the house. He had been the guest of honor that night at an important meeting of the Civic Committee, [illegible] spoken with his usual clarity and earnestness in spite of the trouble that beset him. Now, however, the regeneration of the city was far from his thought, and his sole concern was with the regeneration of a life, that of his own child, [illegible] fair to be ruined by the [illegible] of a wicked woman. He was [illegible] for the coming of Dick to whom he would make one more appeal. If that should fail, well he must use the influence at his command to secure the forcible parting of the adventuress from his son.

Father and Son

The room in which he paced to and fro was of a solid dignity, well fitted to serve as an environment for its owner. It was very large and lofty. There was [illegible] in the desk that stood opposite the hall door, near a window. This [illegible] window itself was large, high, [illegible] octagonal, with leaded panes. [illegible], there was a great fireplace [illegible] tiles, around which was woodwork elaborately carved, the fruit of patient questing abroad. On the walls were hung some pieces of tapestry, where there were not bookcases. Over the octagonal window, too, [illegible] draperies fell in stately lines. Now as the magnate paced back and forth [illegible] there was only a gentle light in the room from a reading lamp on his desk [illegible] chandelier was unlighted. [illegible] It was even as Gilder, in an [illegible] irritation over the delay [illegible] own himself down on a couch [illegible] just a little way within an [illegible] that he heard the outer door open and shut. He sprang up with an ejaculation of satisfaction.

"Dick, at last!" he muttered.

It was, in truth, the son. A moment later, he entered the room, and went at once to his father, who was standing waiting facing the door.

"I'm awfully sorry I'm so late, Dad," he said simply.

"Where have you been?" the father demanded gravely. But there was great affection in the flash of his gray eyes as he scanned the young man's face, and the touch of the hand that he put on Dick's shoulder was very tender. "With that woman again?"

The boy's voice was disconsolate as he replied:

"No, father, not with her. She won't see me."

The older man snorted a wrathful appreciation.

"Naturally," he exclaimed with exceeding bitterness in the heavy voice. "She's got [illegible] wanted from you—my name." He repeated the words with a grimace of exasperation: "My name!"

There was a novel dignity in the son's tone as he spoke.

A New Respect

"It's mine, too, you know, sir," he said quietly.

The father was impressed of a sudden with the fact that while this affair was of supreme import to himself, it was, after all, of still greater significance to his son. To himself, the chief concerns were of the worldly kind. To this boy, the vital thing was something deeper, something of the heart; for, however absurd his feeling, the truth remained that he loved the woman. Yes, it was the son's name that Mary Turner had taken, as well as that of his father. In the case of the son, she had taken not only his name, but his very life. Yes it was, indeed Dick's tragedy. Whatever he, the father, might feel, the son was, after all, more affected. He must suffer more, must lose more must pay more with happiness for his folly.

Gilder looked at his son with a strange, new respect, but he could not let the situation go without protest, protest of the most vehement.

"Dick," he cried, and his big voice was shaken a little by the force of his emotion; "boy, you are all I have in the world. You will have to free yourself from this woman somehow." He stood very erect, staring steadfastly out of his clear gray eyes into those of his son. His heavy face was rigid with feeling; the coarse mouth bent slightly in a smile of troubled fondness, as he added more softly: "You owe me that much."

The son's eyes met his father's freely. There was respect in them, and affection, but there was something else, too, something the older man recognized as beyond his control. He spoke gravely, with a deliberate conviction.

"I owe something to her, too, Dad."

Here Comes the Bride

By FRANCES L. GARSIDE

WHEN a man and woman announce their intention of getting married, don't get them into thinking seriously by asking why.

Shortly after the girl sets the date, the man gives the distress signal to her father. He doesn't want a parade wedding, and will the father assist him in rebelling? But the father knows the strength of the enemies' guns, and responds that it is no use.

One reason the bride insists on a church wedding is that she realizes it is the last time she will ever get the man she marries out to church.

No person, man or woman, who can't look on the bright side should be permitted to enter the marriage state.

When a man walks down the aisle of a church stepping on flowers which little girls have scattered before him he must look like a fool, but no one has even looked at him close enough to see.

Is This True?

A man and woman going on a wedding tour try hard not to look happy, and on their return they try just as hard to look happy.

At a church wedding the girl at the altar all in white looks as if she had won the head prize, and every woman present who has been married as long as a year looks as if she had won the consolation.

When it is said of a bridegroom that he has money, every woman present remarks: "And you bet she knows how to spend it for him."

There isn't as much honey in the honeymoon as reported, much of it being lost in the ordeal of wiping on new towels after they have gone to housekeeping, and breaking in new shoes.

He Sighs

They long during their engagement to go somewhere after they are married where they will be all alone. On the second day after they have been all alone the bride says, "Wouldn't it be nice if some friend should come along." And the groom sighs, "Yes, or even an enemy."

About three months after a bride has left her old home with her nose turned up scornfully at the suggestion that she take her old clothes with her, she comes hurrying back for them, and is mad if one garment is missing.

As a rule a woman has to wear her wedding clothes so many years it is a wonder her great grandchildren don't find rice in them.

The longer a woman has been married, the greater her wonder that she ever thought fine clothes would cut any figure in her happiness.

Their Married Life

Warren Is Caustic, but Helen Is Much Impressed by the Suffragist Parade

By MABEL HERBERT URNER

"THERE'S the band!"

Helen leaned farther out the window, but a stone projection from the adjoining building shut off their view down the avenue. They could only see the paraders as they passed.

Helen and Warren and the Stevensons were in New York, the men, of course, on business.

Now the street was lined with people, and now there was a general stir of expectancy as every one gazed down the avenue at the first strains of the approaching band.

"Wait, we'll roll our gloves," and Mrs. Stevens spread a newspaper over the dusty windowsill.

The music grew louder. Policemen were patrolling the street to keep back the crowd on the curbing. The great avenue was swept clear.

First came the horseback parade, six-teen women in black riding habits with yellow pennants of "Votes for Women." Then the standard bearers, the grand marshal, the band—and the parade was under way.

Helen's first impression was that the women marched well—very well. They carried themselves with conscious dignity and an earnestness of purpose. The white gowns and yellow regalia shone brilliantly in the sunlight.

"Oh, I wish we could read the banners," complained Mrs. Stevens, for they could see only the backs of the banners as they passed. "I should think they would letter them on both sides."

"Wonder what college this is?" murmured Helen, as a company of women in black university gowns and mortar-board caps marched by with stately precision.

"Well, we can't tell anything if we can't read the standards. We really could see better from the street."

Helen Objects

"Oh, but it's much nicer up here," protested Helen, who hated to be jostled in a crowd. "I brought a paper that gave the order of marching—perhaps we can tell something by that. Here it is," turning to an article headed:

"30,000 Women Will March Today.

35 Bands in Procession.

Parade forms at Washington Square at 3 O'Clock.

Line of March Up Fifth Ave. to"——

"Look, you're missing this," interrupted Mrs. Stevens, as a great square canvas lettered, "Votes for Women, Victory 1915" was carried flat by half a dozen women on each side.

Some one from an upper window threw a handful of coppers on the canvas. The crowd laughed, but the women gazed unmoved ahead. A band followed playing the French battle hymn—The Marseillaise. Then came a company in swinging step to the music, carrying many banners.

"Oh, why don't they all wear white?" asked Helen. "They'd look so much better in a regulation white uniform."

"What's doing?" Mr. Stevens was now looking over their shoulders.

"Oh, Fred, you're missing it ALL," as Mrs. Stevens moved over for him to sit down beside her.

"Can't come now. Got to do some work, but I'll be with you when Curtis gets here."

Helen glanced at the clock. Warren had promised to come up about five and they were all going out to dinner together. She begged him to come earlier, but he had scoffed at the idea of leaving his work for a suffragette parade.

Warren Arrives

However, it was not quite four when the door opened and Warren stalked in. Helen greeted him joyfully.

"Oh, dear, I'm so glad! I want you to see it—it's well worth while!"

"Not much doing Saturday afternoon, so I thought I might as well knock off. How do the dunsels look?" seating himself on the window-sill beside Helen. "Those I saw coming up seemed pretty well seasoned."

"We're too high up to see their faces," said Mrs. Stevens.

"Well, the farther away you are the better they look. Seems to me they'd march better if their skirts weren't so tight."

"Now, dear, you're NOT to say horrid things," reproved Helen. "It really is a very wonderful parade. You can't help but be impressed with their dignity and earnestness."

"I shouldn't say that woman in a red skirt was exactly dignified," laughed Mr. Stevens. "What's the word you call that—a strut?"

"Look at this one over here," and Warren pointed out an extremely stout woman in an extremely tight black dress. "She waddles. French heels, too! Can you beat it?"

"Dear, I don't think that's at all funny, and it's certainly not nice for you to try to pick out things to ridicule. Among 30,000 women some of them may dress inappropriately, but that doesn't affect the cause they're marching for."

"Thirty thousand!" Warren's tone was skeptical. "I'll wager there won't be ten. And why don't they have more bands? That's the only part of any parade that's worth while. Ah, here we have the real thing!"

A band had burst into a lively air just as it came in sight. Leading it was a strutting, gold laced, drum major twirling his baton.

"He's great," grinned Warren. "I've always been partial to drum majors. They're so blamed pompous over nothing. Wish he'd drop that thing. I'd like to see him scurry after it."

But the drum major grandly flourished and tossed his baton without mishap, and Warren's desire to see his dignity upset was not gratified.

"Wonder how long they can tie up these side streets?" asked Mr. Stevens. "Just look over there."

A Big Crowd

As they were in a corner building they could see up the cross street, which was stalled with jammed traffic. But no one seemed to mind the delay. People were standing up in their cars, and some had climbed on the limousine tops and were waving at the paraders.

"There's a sensible fellow." Warren was looking down at the driver of a huge beer truck, who had gone comfortably to sleep on his seat.

"Oh, here are more college girls." Helen leaned forward eagerly. "There's Vassar and Bryn Mawr," as the breeze blew the flags so they could read them. "Don't they march well?"

"Here comes the Sutherland Sisters," scoffed Warren, as a group of young women, dressed as flower girls with long flowing hair, marched by.

"Well, they look a lot better without hats," commented Mr. Stevens. "From the way most women wear their hats jammed down over their head, you'd think they hadn't any hair."

"Ah, this is more like it." Warren was ridiculing a woman marching in a changeable silk dress that fairly glittered in the sunlight.

"She's got a new Spring gown and she's going to wear it! Oh, I say, now we ARE getting our money's worth," as next came a mounted company. "Look how they sit hunched up in their saddles! Tomorrow we'll read about the 'graceful riders on their prancing steeds.'"

"Well," with a yawn, getting up from his seat on the window-sill, "had about enough of this?"

"Oh, no! no dear, let's not go yet," pleaded Helen. "It's really a very wonderful demonstration. I'd like to see it through."

"What's the matter with you? Getting converted to the cause? Thought you were an anti?"

"You know I was never that," indignantly. "I was simply neutral. I didn't know anything about it—and I don't know very much now. But there are enough fine, earnest women in this parade to make me feel that I should know more."

"The first symptoms," groaned Warren, "you'll have it bad. Suppose I'll soon be hearing of nothing but meetings, unions and the 'cause.' Let's go home to Boston and tie a 'Votes for Women' on Pussy Purr-mee."

But this sally Helen treated with the lofty silence it deserved.

"You know what time it is?" finally demanded Warren. "Half past five! How much longer do you want to hang out that window? If we're going to that roadhouse for dinner we'd better get started. I'd like some nourishment pretty soon."

"All right, dear, I guess this is about the end. Oh, I'm so glad we came. I AM impressed. I do think it was a VERY wonderful demonstration!"

"I believe you made that remark before," said Warren dryly.

They all went down the hall to the elevator. It was crowded with people who had been seeing the parade from upper offices. Every one was commenting on the marchers.

"Well, they're in earnest—and they'll get what they want," was the very audible comment of one man.

Warren made a grimace, but as Helen was crowded against him in the elevator she whispered enthusiastically:

"And I hope they'll get it VERY SOON!"

Do You Wonder

That Cupid Is Such an Adorable Rogue When His Mother Was Such a Lovely Trouble Maker?

By NELL BRINKLEY

LOVELY he is—adorable, a plotter, irresistible, a knave, sweet as an almond blossom, a dabbler in trouble, soft-hearted, cruel, "I love" his business, a promiser, offering bitter-sweet, unutterably a darling, unchangeably a rascal! And everybody— ('specially those who have been stirred 'round in one of his concoctions which he calls "an affair")—everybody ('specially those who know he is both an almond-blossom and a rascal—and yet love him)—everybody wonders why he is all this! Maybe you do not think of his mother when you wonder that. How could he help but be lovable, a rascal, and a contradiction! For his mother he had a creature, herself born of the sea, the sea which is tender and terrible, smiling and stormy, and all mystery—Venus—goddess of beauty, lover of laughter and love and light, herself a rogue and a saint! Playing all day long under the sun and sky of dream-fostering Greece, in the white-circle of her arms, strained to her breast, teased with a rose in her idle hand, looking often into the hot blue of her eyes, hearing her laughter, comrade in her mischief—son of a Beauty—a devotee of Love—a sweet Rogue—how could he be other than what he is!

How to Manage a Husband

By DOROTHY DIX

THEY had admired all of the little bride's wedding finery, and had finally drifted over to where the tea table was set by an open window.

"Well, my dear," said the woman in the soft white gown, "I hope you are going to be as happy as the days are long, and I am sure you will, for Jack is a fine fellow, and he is well to do, and an orphan, so you are going to escape hard times and mothers-in-law, two of the principal snags that are most apt to make a big dent in the barque of matrimony, even when they don't wreck it.

"Still, you must not expect to find everything plain sailing. There are a good many storms on even the calmest sea of wedlock, and you are going to find out that lots of things that you expected to happen won't happen, and a lot of things that you were positive couldn't occur do occur with amazing frequency.

"Also, you are going to discover, and it will give you the jar of your life, that the noble ideal of perfect manhood that you are trying up with has got faults, and peculiarities, and whims, and crotchets that you had never suspected concealed about his person.

"Now take it from me, that the great thing in married life is for the wife to begin right, to get off on the right foot, so to speak, for every man can be managed, and brought to work out of his wife's hand, if only she goes about it in the proper manner."

"What is the best way of managing a husband?" anxiously inquired the little bride.

The Best Way

"Well," replied the woman in the soft white gown, "I can't do better than relate to you the experiences of two friends of mine, both of whom married good men, but men who were high tempered and tyrannical, and cross—the sort of men you know who possess all of the virtues and none of the lovable qualities of life. They are the kind of husbands who are too much gentleman ever to strike a woman with their hand, but who leave her bruised and bleeding and wounded to death in spirit after they have stabbed her with their tongues.

"There are lots of men like that, my dear, and when I get elected to the Legislature the very first thing I am going to do is to bring in a bill to make a man's disposition, instead of his morals, a cause for divorce.

"But back to my story. One of these women whom I am telling you is named Bertha, and she is one of those gentle, suffering women who are born salve spreaders. Anything like a jolt in the domestic machinery hurts her to the very core of her being. She isn't weak. Oh, dear no. She would hang on to a principle, or a conviction, to eternity, and be loyal to one she loved to the death itself, and if you pushed her to the wall she'd fight until there wasn't an enemy left alive, but she would never argue a question with you, or say a thing that would hurt your feelings, or do anything to make the slightest unpleasantness.

"Well, when the rosy mists of the honeymoon rolled up and she discovered that she was married to a man who was twin brother to the fretful porcupine, and whose prejudices simply screwed the ground around her, she undertook to manage him by tact.

What She Did

"She only conversed upon the subjects that she knew he agreed with her upon. She devoted her days to rubbing his fur down the right way. She kept every thing that was unpleasant, and that could possibly ruffle him, hidden out of sight, and spent her life tiptoeing on eggs for fear of rousing him and exploding his infernal machine of a temper. In short, in order to keep the peace and make her home happy, she went through a very martyrdom of sacrifice of all of her desires and inclinations.

"It is," said the little bride, "and how did the other woman manage her husband?"

"The other woman," replied the woman of the soft white dress, "was of a different type. She had a red-headed temper of her own that was a dead ringer for her husband's, besides which she loved a scrap for the pure love of the thing. She didn't dodge the issue when her husband flung a debatable subject into the family arena. She simply rolled up her sleeves and sailed in, and when the domestic mixup was over the wasn't always the one who was on the mat.

"She was a good woman, and a good wife and mother, who did her full duty by her family, and she stood pat on her record. She didn't waste any time trying to jolly or cajole her husband as poor Bertha did. If he didn't like the way she did things, and her opinions, why he could lump it, that was all. She was an independent, free spoken woman, and she didn't see why she should wear herself out flattering any old husband into doing the things he ought to do, anyway.

"And she didn't mind expressing those sentiments, but the result was that their house was a dark and bloody battleground, with no day without its spat. But that was her way of managing a husband."

"Which one of the systems works?" asked the little bride with a troubled air.

"Neither," replied the woman in the soft, white gown.

Ultra-Modesty

By VIRGINIA TERHUNE VAN DE WATER

"TO the ultra-pure all things are impure." Such is the corruption of an ancient proverb, a corruption which, we are sometimes forced to admit, bears a firmer stamp of truth than does the original maxim.

It is a sad commentary upon human nature that the person possessing a consciousness of self-righteousness is pretty sure to be conscious also of the other fellow's faults. Did he not appreciate them he would lose half the pleasure of his own virtues.

An exaggerated consciousness of sex is often responsible for insinuation and suggestion which would be absent from the conversation of an outspoken person. Some people, compelled by what they consider a sense of propriety, are particular to the point of prurience in speaking of doubtful subjects. Their hyper-prophied modesty makes them ridiculous, and the subject of which they are forced to speak assumes an importance that would not belong to it if it were treated honestly.

"I am suffering with rheumatism in my limb," complained an ultra-fastidious spinster to her physician.

"You have four limbs, madam," the blunt practitioner reminded her. "From your vague reference to the affected member I suppose it is one of those limbs termed by sensible people LEGS!"

"You need not ask a chaperon to accompany us," a girl said to a young man who had asked to be allowed to take her for an automobile ride. "I trust you implicitly."

She was little more than a child, but she was better perfect in the suspicious moral code in which her narrow mother had trained her. The lad was scarcely to be blamed when he answered somewhat gruffly, "If I hadn't believed that already I would not have asked you to go with or without a chaperon."

But reluctant and hesitating speech on certain subjects is only one phase of the exaggerated modesty that borders on indecency. Some persons see insinuations in plays—and does not plays that are among the many to which one might justly take exception—where less suspicious people discern only innocent fun. They watch for the double entendre in the speech of others and find impropriety where another would not.

This is not an argument in favor of coarse speech, for would I advocate conversation upon topics which are unpleasant, and, to say the least, distasteful, if not evil. But I do claim that if circumstances make it necessary for one to speak of such matters, if, for the good of mankind or for the suppression of some wrong, a man or woman must deal with any disagreeable problem, there is a consciousness of the pureness of one's motive, of the dignity of the end toward which one strives, that makes one forget questions of modesty and immodesty, propriety and impropriety in the one overwhelming desire to do that which is right.

FORBES HOLDS GOVERNMENT BY THREATS IS BAD

By B. C. FORBES,
Business Editor of the American.

Government by threat has been ushered in by President Wilson and his henchmen, business men complain.

Woodrow Wilson, you remember, began it before he took office by threatening the gallows for any financiers who spoke or acted panicky. His advisers were quick to catch the cue. Today the air is charged with dire threatenings. Business men, who will not stay in business until their last dollar has gone under free trade, are to be hanged, drawn and quartered. They are to have nothing to say about the running of their affairs. The government is to run things, at least to the extent of forcing protectionists wages under free trade and tariff reform.

No power under heaven can force a non-public company or firm to stay in business at a loss. Secretary of Commerce Redfield may rave until he is red in the face, a thousand high-priced investigators may fly into coat sleeves and pay rolls, and indictments may be issued galore, but if business cannot be employed at a reasonable profit in any industry, then capital will quit.

No Migration to Europe.

The public, however, had better hesitate to accept a false value statement made yesterday by certain manufacturers to the effect that they will emigrate bag and baggage to Europe if pet schedules be not left intact. No American free trade convert will fly to foreign ills he knows not of until he has been driven to the last ditch at home. This was admitted yesterday by John Hansen, for years president of the National Shoe Manufacturers' Association.

He said:

We have no disposition to ask our work people to accept less than they are earning now and we shall continue to pay as high as we are doing now. But there must come a time when we must stop. Then we will have to take the line of least resistance. We do not want to enter into a conflict with the labor people and, therefore, we must remove a large portion of our works to England or Germany, where there is cheaper labor.

No sane man wants to see American wages cut. But if the government so sets that industries cannot be run on a fair wage basis, then labor cannot but suffer.

Theory Needs Aid of Facts.

Are free trade wages desirable in this country? Free trade in theory is ideal for the whole universe. But when the life of theory is sent up into the air it is well to balance it with facts with actualities.

Mere threats to punish employers who will be affected by tariff changes can accomplish nothing. Instead of legislation, and investigating afterward, would it not be better to examine into how? Not a few industries would willingly open their ledgers to Secretary Redfield.

If reciprocity were given adequate attention, if in return for concessions to foreigners something substantial were gained for American firms, both employers and employes here would benefit.

Something more useful than a rapid fire of threats is urgently needed by our

JOHN BURROUGHS AT MT. HOLYOKE

SOUTH HADLEY, May 16.—John Burroughs, the famous naturalist, who is spending a few days at Mt. Holyoke College, has made a hit with the college girls. With Dr. Clapp he took the scholastic class out to walk. He told the class that he lamented the fact that the number of birds is growing steadily smaller each year. Even the bobolink is going fast, he said. In the course of his walk Mr. Burroughs expressed his views on politics, prophesying that the time is coming when all women will have the vote if they want it.

TODAYS STOCK MARKET

There was a better tone to stock markets at the opening although the local one was very dull. Prices averaged higher in New York, where, after an hour, Union Pacific showed a gain of 1¾ and Southern Pacific was up a point. There is an impression in Wall Street that steps have been taken which will result in a settlement of the labor disputes on the Amalgamated, Steel and Reading advanced fractionally. The London market was very quiet and there was a holiday in Berlin, so foreign influence upon markets on this side were slight.

In Boston prices changes were narrow in most instances and coppers were irregular. Wolverine went up a point, New Haven was a little higher and Boston Elevated lower. Boston & Maine did not figure in early trading.

New Haven Lost Early Gain.

Improvement was shown in speculative positions at the opening of the stock market, much interest centering on New York, New Haven & Hartford, which rose one point to 106. Later, however, it lost all this gain. So did U. S. Steel, which advanced ⅜ to 90¾. The increase in the export trade position was reflected in brisk buying of Amalgamated, which advanced to 74 for a gain of ⅜. Pennsylvania opened at 56¼, a gain of ⅛, opening at 110¼, and selling about as low as during the 1907 panic.

Among the gains were Canadian Pacific ⅜, C. & O. ⅝, Steel common ⅜, Union Pacific ⅝, Reading ⅝, L. & N. ⅜, and New York Central ⅜. American Smelting shaded fractionally.

The turn was steady.

Americans and Canadian Pacific in London ruled steady above New York parity.

New Haven Dividend Cut.

The expected has happened in regard to the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad Company dividend, for directors have reduced the rate from an 8 per cent. annual basis to 6 per cent. Directors met yesterday for dividend action, a quarterly payment of 1½ per cent. was declared, which compares with 2 per cent. declared three months ago.

The company has paid dividends at 8 per cent. annually since 1896, although the full amount has not been earned in the last two years. Dividends on New Haven stock were begun in 1873 at the rate of 10 per cent. a year and continued at that rate until 1890, when they were reduced to 7½ per cent. A year later, the 10 per cent. rate was resumed and maintained until 1896.

Reduction of payments means a cutting of $3,600,000 a year, or 5½ per cent. in the income of shareholders, 90 per cent. of whom reside in New York, Connecticut and Rhode Island.

The dividend declared yesterday was in line with the general expectation in the financial district, although there were some interests who looked for a cut to 4 per cent. instead of 6 per cent.

On May 1 the shares sold at the record low price of 92⅜, which compared with the high figure of 129⅞ this year. The stock sold as high as 255 in 1901.

London Copper Quotations.

The London copper warrants market was easy at the start, spot opening 1s. 3d. higher and futures 3s. 6d.

The substantial declines in copper quotations yesterday were largely due to the influence of a big break in tin. American producers continued to ask 15.90 cents a pound for electrolytic tin last market, while prices to the domestic trade on this side remained at 15¾. Second hands offered at 15.50 cents in concessions.

London fortnightly statistics show that European stocks of copper on May 15 decreased 727 tons, while copper supplies afloat decreased 1,400 tons, or a total decrease of 1,127 tons in the visible supply. The visible supply of 42,704 tons compares with 41,577 tons on 30 and 35,717 tons on May 15 last year.

Financial News in Brief.

For 1912 undivided profits and dividend payments of Standard Oil of Kansas were equivalent to 110 per cent. on the outstanding $1,000,000 stock. The surplus increased from $32,289 at the close of the year of 1911 to $1,088,474 at the end of the last year, a gain of $1,056,190.

The pig iron market continues dull, but an increase in inquiries leads manufacturers to expect better business before long.

It is cabled that the Mexican government has arranged with the Longs of Kansas for a loan of $25,000,000, and that the terms are high. Mexico is trying to raise $75,000,000 more. The money is to be spent to restore railroad property damaged or destroyed in recent revolutions.

The Paris stock market is stronger because of an improvement in the monetary situation. Money is easier there after the half-monthly settlement than was expected. But the public is not yet professional.

Dividends distributed yesterday by thirty-six railroad, industrial and public service corporations totalled $9,782,292, which is $3,208,112 in excess of what was passed around a year ago.

It is said that New York Central does not intend to do any new financing until Fall, having practically all the funds it needs for work planned for execution during the Summer.

During the past ten months Brooklyn Rapid Transit gross earnings have increased about $800,000, and it is expected, Thompson, Towle & Co. say, to show for the next annual report more than 9 per cent. earned on the $45,000,000 capital stock.

A New York commission broker is quoted as explaining the recent sagging in prices as being largely due to cautious but persistent selling for a short account that was already unwieldy, and the next decisive movement, he thinks, should be a rush to repurchase.

The New York sub-treasury lost $544,000 to the banks yesterday and since Friday has gained $4,887,000 net.

The Boston Stock Exchange, like the one in New York, will be closed on Saturday, May 31.

The Fore River Shipbuilding Corporation has been incorporated under Massachusetts laws at a capitalization of $1,000,000, to take over the Fore River Shipbuilding Company. The directors are President Francis T. Bowles, Vice-President John P. Healy, Treasurer Norman J. Macmillin, Secretary Charles E. Hathaway, Lawrence A. Rankin, George B. Williams and Fred A. Foresman.

THAW BACK AT ASYLUM AFTER 'BRIBE' STORY

NEW YORK, May 16.—Harry K. Thaw is back at the Matteawan Asylum today after his stay in New York, where he testified at the trial of John N. Anhut, the lawyer, accused of attempting by means of bribery to effect Thaw's release.

Three attendants from Matteawan accompanied Thaw from the court room, where the trial was resumed today, and rode with him in a taxicab to the Grand Central Station.

The Price of Freedom.

Thaw's testimony implicated Dr. John W. Russell of Matteawan in the alleged plot. He said Anhut paid him back $14,700 of the $25,000 he had given as the price of freedom when the plan failed. Thaw said he had spent $65,000 in efforts to secure his release from Matteawan.

This sum, he said, was exclusive of the expenses of his two trials for the killing of Stanford White.

"I was pretty well swindled on my two trials," Thaw explained in this connection, "the costs were something tremendous."

He testified that during a conversation with Anhut, questions of raising money were discussed and that he secured 140 shares of a gas company stock, valued at about $20,000 and $5,000 in cash from his sister, Mrs. George L. Carnegie.

Am. Zinc.

"Was that money ever turned over to Dr. Russell," was the question.

"No, that money was turned over to Dr. Russell," was the question.

"No, that money was turned over to Dr. Russell. We had arranged everything before I ever saw Anhut."

Evelyn Happy in Paris.

Paris dispatches today say Evelyn Nesbit Thaw greatly enjoyed her stay in that city and she will have one continuous round of enjoyment for the next few weeks before she goes to London to take part in "Hullo, Ragtime!" at the Hippodrome.

"I came to Europe to work, because I am not a freak here, but a mere dancer on a salary I am really worth," Evelyn said in Paris. "I shall go to London about June 1 to start work, and I am already studying new routines for the dances. I shall tour the Continent if the show proceeds, probably remaining in Europe for a long time."

SPOUSE OF NEWTON GIRL MAY GET BAIL ON DEATH CHARGE

SPRINGFIELD, O., May 16.—Dr. Arthur B. Smith will know Monday if Judge Harmon will admit him to bail on the charge of poisoning his first wife. Smith's first trial ended in a disagreement, the jury, it is said, standing seven to five for conviction. Smith's present wife, who was Mabel Merchant of Newton Highlands, Massachusetts, seldom visits him at the jail.

GREATER BOSTON MEN 'TAPPED' FOR YALE WOLF'S HEAD

NEW HAVEN, May 16.—Alexander M. Hunnes of Brookline, and Scott H. Paradise of West Medford were among the Massachusetts men elected to Wolf's Head, the Yale senior society, on "Tap Day." Henry H. Ketcham, football coach and the last man tapped for Bones, "Bus" Brown, pitcher on the baseball team, was the last tapped for Wolf's Head.

Acting Mayor Thomas J. Kenny is scheduled to lead the march this evening at the May party to be given under the direction of the Dorchester Owl Club, at an extensive list of business and professional men of the Mount Pleasant section of Roxbury, in Otisfield Hall, Blue Hill avenue.

The 150 striking employes of the Colonial Can Company, No. 36 Pittsburgh street, South Boston, who went out yesterday because they were compelled to work fifty-eight hours and who demanded fifty-five hours a week, have won. Manager Campbell said: "We have agreed to their terms provided we can get fifty-five working hours out of our employes. The strikers will take a vote today.

LARGEST CIRCULATION IN NEW ENGLAND, DAILY AND SUNDAY

The Fate of the Initiative and the Referendum Is in the Hands of an Adventitious Republican Majority DARE THEY KILL IT?

The Republican leaders of the State and Nation are now filling the air with their PROTESTATIONS OF REFORM. Everywhere they are admitting that they must bring their once proud and serviceable party abreast of the progressive thought of the day, in order that a few may again be found to do it reverence.

Year after year the party of Lincoln more and more forgot the principles of its great expounder and the spirit of the men who founded it and placed it in power, until at last it became clear to the Nation that the Republican party had definitely repudiated Lincoln's immortal proposition, delivered at Gettysburg, that ours is "A GOVERNMENT OF THE PEOPLE AND BY THE PEOPLE."

When the Republican party gives some TANGIBLE PLEDGE to the Nation and to the State that it has returned to the old doctrine of its founders, there may be some hope of its resurrection. But professions and protestations, however loud and frequent and ubiquitous, have no value in the mouths of men who have brought an historic party to the dust by repudiating a fundamental truth and by an attempt at the studendous LARCENY of a government from its people.

The forms of government by representatives and by judges, both controlled by the great special interests which secured their election and their appointment, have failed in this country. The representatives have not represented their constituents, but have represented the interests which paid their campaign expenses, and then often paid them more than their salaries during their term of service. The judges have in too many instances not interpreted the law, but changed it and made new law to suit their politics or the interests which put them on the bench.

By the misrepresentation of our Legislatures and Congress and through the abuse of power by the courts, our government has CEASED to be a government of and by and for the people.

It took Americans a long time to know what was the source of their troubles. They are finding out today in Massachusetts and throughout the country. They know that the power of the government has slipped out of their hands and they are proposing to TAKE IT BACK AGAIN into their possession.

The method which the American people are adopting everywhere to bring back their government into their own hands again is that of the initiative and referendum. The initiative is the process by which the people can INITIATE important laws which their legislatures will not pass for them. The referendum is the means by which the people can COMPEL their legislature to submit to them any important law which the legislature has passed which gives away public rights or affects the public vitally.

When these two methods of restoring the lost government into the hands of its rightful possessors are adopted, nine-tenths of the present corruption in politics will cease. The contrc of public servants by the great corporations and other special interests will cease to be important, because, on the great questions, these powerful interests will not only be obliged to convince the public servants, but they must CONVINCE ALSO THE PUBLIC. They will stop paying the campaign funds of Senator Jones and Representative Smith, because that would be THROWING MONEY AWAY. They will stop attempting to obtain laws injurious to the public interest, for that would be a WASTE OF TIME.

The people understand these things now. The Democratic party in Massachusetts has declared for the initiative and referendum and its representatives are supporting it in the Legislature. The new but vigorous and successful Progressive party, which has so much of the spirit of the old Lincoln Republicans, MAKES THE INITIATIVE AND REFERENDUM ITS NATIONAL SHIBBOLETH. Its representatives in Massachusetts have prepared and presented to the Legislature an excellent draft of an amendment of the Constitution providing for this great reform.

DO THE REPUBLICANS DARE TO DEFEAT IT while a ray of hope is left to them of bringing their party back to its former power? DO THEY THINK that the American people will accept THEIR EMPTY PROFESSIONS in the face of their acts against the initiative and referendum now pending? If they defeat this proposal by a majority in the Legislature, which they ought not to have and which represents a very small minority of the people of this Commonwealth, then they are giving evidence that Destiny proposes to destroy the Republican party, for it will be touched with that madness which is the premonitory sign of destruction.

Let the Republican leaders consider the plight of their party at the last election, with less States in its column than even the Populists used to control. Let them consider the significance of the great concourse of Progressives at Tremont Temple Wednesday night and the two former Progressive meetings out of the political season. In the palmiest days of its greatest power and arrogance, the Republican party could not have summoned such multitudes nor raised such funds FROM DISINTERESTED SOURCES.

What gave this new formed party the strength of a young giant at the very hour of its birth? Let Republican leaders who want to assassinate a measure that would restore our government to us once more consider the causes of this infant prodigy.

With the Best Intention

Praise AMERICAN for Stand Against Reckless Motorist

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—The Boston AMERICAN should be commended for the stand it has taken toward the RECKLESS AUTOISTS. It will find support from the people in this cause such as it never found before, for it is something upon which they feel deeply and fervently.

They have waited long and wearily for a champion in this cause. For years they have been deprived of their constitutional rights to the highway by the arrogant autoists. If our suburban roads can be made by your efforts one inch as safe for our women and children as they were in the days of the wolf and the Indian, the fathers and mothers of this Commonwealth will rise and say: "God bless the Boston AMERICAN!" I am writing this to let you know the PEOPLE are noticing.

A FRIEND OF THE AUTO.

Editor Boston AMERICAN:

Dear Sir—Suppose Police Commissioner O'Meara would order the police to take the numbers each day for two weeks of speeding autoists seen using the city streets in an unsafe manner, and not bring any into court daily, only bad cases, and at the end of two weeks or ten days look up these numbers and compare them. I for one am perfectly satisfied that there would be a third to a half of the total numbers taken who had been taken by two to four policemen in different part of the city.

If any are found that have been reported three times, let District Attorney Pelletier proceed, and the Highway Commission suspend all licenses for one or two months of those reported twice. This would be a simple and effective cure.

The Message of Hopedale

Harry Phillips, Deputy Mayor and Alderman for Many Years for West Ham, East London, Lecturing in This Country as the Representative of the Society for the Promotion of the Principles of Eugenics, Says It Is the Revolt Against Repression

By HARRY PHILLIPS

THE revolt against repression. That is the real message of Hopedale. The message to all the Rip Van Winkle employers of the Draper type. It is a curious type. When you look at the man you wonder where he got his kink from. What ancestor handed on to this otherwise capable, level-headed, up-to-date American business man this unfortunate gift of how not to run his own mill. He spends large sums on modern machinery for his works, and then runs a strike on absolutely mediaeval methods.

I am an industrial efficiency surveyor of some years' experience in England and here in America, so Hopedale had a special interest for me. I have visited both Milford and Hopedale and talked with the workpeople and townspeople of all grades and nationalities, and I am convinced that Mr. Draper is already beaten.

The real determining factor in a strike of this kind is Public Opinion, and public opinion is absolutely against Mr. Draper in the methods he is using toward the foreign workmen. Hopedale does not like it. Hopedale people wanted their little town to go down to posterity as the most peaceful and beautiful spot in New England. Now, the historian will speak of Hopedale as he will of Lawrence—a town of a brutally managed strike, where unarmed men were shot down for holding fundamental principles of American ethics, namely, the right to combine to live—and Hopedale people are not proud of their new notoriety.

Will these Drapers of American and English industry never learn that they cannot shoot or imprison a principle, that the blood of martyrs is always the seed of their cause? That by shooting that Italian workman, hundreds have joined the I. W. W. simply as a protest against the murder of their fellow countryman. Will these Drapers of industry never learn that by arresting and imprisoning the Ettors and the Giovannittis they are adding a power and publicity to these leaders that no leadership of their own would ever have given them? Cannot these Draper directors see that at infinite cost to themselves, loss of trade and publicity to their town, not only are they not breaking up industrial unionism and winning their own cause, but they are doing more for the spread of the principles of trade unions than all the labor leaders of the country?

I heard that the I. W. W. are seriously thinking of offering Mr. Draper a position as principal organizer for their movement. He has done such splendid recruiting work for the I. W. W. the last few weeks, all at his own cost and not at theirs.

Trade unions and industrial combines have come to stay. Germany might just as reasonably demand that France should scrap her Navy and disband her Army, as combined and organized capital tell labor it should not organize, and that if it does, it does so at the risk of being arrested, imprisoned and shot.

Also think of the moderateness of the demands of labor and the stupendous force at its back. These men of Hopedale are asking for a minimum wage of $2 a day and eight hours work, standing in front of blasting furnaces and molten steel for 313 days a years. If they stop one single hour they lose their wage.

Does capital think that labor will always be content with these pitiful moderate demands? Does it think that the awakening conscience of the American people will always allow them to ask so little? Are your Draper class of employers so deaf that they cannot hear the Niagara roar of the mighty accumulating force of labor in mine, mill, rail and seat. Does it not stun us with its awful, pentup, uncontrolled force!

Some day THE leader will arrive! Ah, not an Ettor, or a Giovannitti, or a Gompers—but a Lincoln of Labor, a Cromwell, a Bismarck! The leaders of today are capable, but the leader of tomorrow will combine and control the whole of this Niagara force of labor, and switch on the electric driving power of a silent revolution. And then labor will not ask for $2 a day as a minimum for themselves and a maximum profit for the employer. I am not using wild, whirlly words; I am writing in a calm mood, with many years of experience near to the heart of labor, and I am convinced that industrial efficiency and the smooth working of mills and factories can only be brought about by the right of expression and not the tryanny of repression.

So also in patriotism. Will the Scanlans and the Drapers of Great Britain and America never learn that you cannot evoke patriotism by repression of free thought! That you cannot build up patriotism and love of country by giving little children penny flags with stars and stripes, and deny their fathers the right to think socialism out loud, or hold a public meeting or parade. To develop patriotism for one's country, you must give the workman an interest in that country—Liberty and Justice—something worth fighting for. Then you will bring about true patriotism. All the flag waving and national anthems accompanied by repression of free speech, do not make or develop patriotism and love of one's country. Exactly so with industrial efficiency—it is the most important factor in all commerce.

I am not sure whether the people of a town or city are really justified in allowing the Wellbeing and peace and prosperity of their town to be ruined, and their principal streets turned into battlefield and shambles like Lawrence and Hopedale. Whether the townsmen are not justified in saying to the owner of the works: "If you cannot pay a minimum living wage of $2 a day to your workpeople, and run your works, and settle your economic differences without raising civil war and bloodshed in the town, then we, your townsmen, will appoint and put in an official receiver and run your works for you, in your own interest and that of the town, charging such cost of receiver up to your estate."

This is not socialism. It means economic and industrial efficiency in the works, and industrial peace and prosperity in the town dependent upon those works. That, I venture to suggest, is the wider message of Hopedale.

The AMERICAN Congratulates Those Legislators Who See the Need of a Wider Avery Street

The AMERICAN congratulates the gentlemen in the Legislature who have had sense enough to see the necessity for widening Avery street. While this improvement should really be a part of a general plan to relieve us of our narrow, crooked and congested streets, yet the painful procrastinations of this community concerning every undertaking that looks big and requires confidence readers it wise to make whatever improvements are possible when the opportunity offers, and while the community is hesitating and paltering with the greater plan.

Nobody can deny the necessity for the widening of Avery street, nor is it fair for anyone to urge that this improvement await a more comprehensive scheme of improvement, so long as the inauguration of the general scheme is not definitely fixed.

If we were to estimate the cost to the city of such an alley as Avery street in the loss of time and convenience to our citizens, reckoning that loss in dollars and cents, we should find that the improvement would yield wonderful profits on its cost.

The AMERICAN earnestly hopes that this much needed improvement will meet no further obstacles on its way to enactment.
